FORMER HEAD OF KU KLUX KLAN SAYS ORDER HAS BECOME A MENACE

Now a Cheap Political Machine Which Should be Forced to Disband Unless it Stamps Out Hooded Terrorism, He Says in Letter to President Coolidge.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, Dec. 27.—The Ku Klux Klan as a national issue was brought dramatically into the open today and laid on the doorstep of the White House.

In a letter to President Coolidge, Edward Young Clarke, imperial giant and former head of the Klan in the United States, declared the organization which he was instrumental in founding, had degenerated into a "cheap political machine" that is "brazenly superceding the authority of American courts" and he concluded his letter with an appeal to the president to take the lead in a national effort to stamp out "hooded terrorism" or else force the Klan to disband.

Clarke's letter created a sensation in the capital. Not only did the founder of the Klan confirm, in his letter, some of the gravest charges that have been made against organization by its enemies, but he also served notice of a war to a finish upon Hiram W. Evans, present imperial wizard.

The fate of the Klan as a national organization is said to hang in the balance.

Besides the letter Clarke submitted to the president a mass of documentary evidence to support his charges that the present administration of the Klan has violated laws, that it has "deprived citizens of their constitutional rights" and that it has "encouraged physical violence and indignation of citizens." The promise of still further documents of a highly sensational character bearing upon the history of the Klan in Oklahoma, Texas and Louisiana was to have been given the president as well.

The letter was delivered to President Coolidge this morning by Edgar Fuller, secretary to Clarke, while the ex-imperial wizard himself is said to be enroute to Washington to personally lay before the president, if permitted, documents relating to a score of sensational Klan secrets and cases.

While Fuller was at the White House Evans and a little band of his lieutenants were holding a meeting in a hotel not far from the White House considering ways and means of counteracting Clarke's bold step. Evans is said to have got wind of the move several days ago and slipped quietly into Washington to be on hand for today's developments.

Clarke in his letter savagely assailed the existing Klan, its present policies and the acts of its officials. In part it follows:

"To the President:
"The White House,
"Sir:

"As the man most largely responsible for the building of the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan and having recently been confronted with indisputable information and evidence showing the prostitution of the ideals and principles and purposes of the Klan and also facts relating to the steady withdrawal of the better element, I take the liberty of addressing this communication to you, the supreme head of our government, to tender you any assistance in my power to end the activities of an element of our citizenship which has crept into the organization and is apparently in control thereof, and making the Klan as now operated a real menace to law and order, individual rights and liberties and democratic political government.

"I have received from widely separated sections of the country direct and authoritative information that the Klan is rapidly developing nationally as a cheap political machine, a regulatory law and order league and, in sections where it is strongest, brazenly and openly superceding the authority of the courts, and through character assassination, intimidation and actual physical violence, depriving American citizens of their constitutional rights without due process of law or trial before a jury of their peers.

"The positive and indisputable information which has come to me as to the gradual degradation and despoliation of the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan is a severe shock to me and while I am perfectly willing to assume the moral responsibility which is rightly mine, as having been chiefly instrumental in the building of the Klan, in justice to myself and the hundreds of thousands of high grade men who have been drawn into the Klan because of its declarations of ideals and principles, I cannot and will not rest passive and silent and sit idly by in the face of such conditions and thus allow to fall on my shoulders the blame for the outrages of justice, individual liberty and respect for the courts and the government resulting from the rape of the organization which has taken place in the past year or eighteen months time."

Clarke declared that the founders of the Klan never intended it to become a law and order league or a political machine, "but rather it was to be an organization designed to upbuild and develop spiritually, morally and physically the Protestant white men of America."

The process by which this was to have been accomplished, he said was educational propaganda.

"Now," he continued, "the thing which alarms me most is the apparent trend of thought inside the organization and tendency of the membership to seek to assume local, state and national political dictatorship. And in my judgment when any powerful secret organization assumes either of these attitudes it immediately becomes a real menace to government.

Clarke then referred to numerous of his speeches to show he has always stood for law and order and declared that as imperial wizard he had threatened to revoke all the charters in one state (Texas) and had forbidden parades in street, (Oklahoma) because he considered them "against public morals."

"In the face of this condition," the letter continued, "I can do no less than tender you any assistance in my power toward forcing the lawless element out of the Klan, thus permitting it to function as intended as a high toned character building active fraternity.

"I propose to immediately issue a proclamation to Klansmen calling the better element of the Klan to take heed of the situation and recognize its seriousness and to either take hold and remedy existing evils and remove from the nation the menacing aspect of the Klan or else meet in national assemblage and disband the organization.

"Most sincerely yours," Signed) "Edward Young Clarke.
"Imperial Giant, Knights of the Ku Klux Klan."

Mr. Schoonmaker received his early education in the Accord public schools and the Kingston Academy, after which he attended Eastman's Business College. In October 1900, he married Minnie Krom, daughter of Captain John B. Krom of High Falls. Mr. Schoonmaker was one of the most progressive and successful farmers in the town of Rochester and took great interest in organized movements for improved methods of farming. He was a fine citizen and through his numerous activities gained many friends and acquaintances. All who know him held him in high esteem for his sterling Christian qualities of character. He was a man of high ideals and refined tastes. Mr. Schoonmaker served in the town of Rochester as collector for two terms and as supervisor for three terms. For 37 years he was a loyal member of the Rochester Reformed Church serving the church faithfully as elder and deacon for 14 years. He loved the Reformed Church and did much for her support by his services and gifts. The church will feel the loss. Besides his wife he is survived by his son, John L., who is a senior at Cornell University and, two daughters, Marian, who is a junior at Cornell University, and Anna D., who is a sophomore in the Kingston High School and, one brother, Alton D., of Greeley Colorado.

JUDGE STALEY CUTS JUDGMENTS

Gives Miss O'Brien And Miss Tonskey Choice Of Accepting $7,500 And $1,000 Or Having Jury's Verdicts Set Aside.

After listening to motions of attorneys for defendant and plaintiffs which were heard by Judge Staley in supreme court Wednesday afternoon the judgments in both the O'Brien and Tonskey cases were reduced by Judge Staley on the grounds they were excessive. In the O'Brien case, an action brought by Miss O'Brien against the director general of railroads, a verdict in the sum of $10,000 was returned by the jury. In the Tonskey case the verdict was for $1,500. The judgments were reduced by the court to $7,500 and $1,000.

Amos Ban Etten, who appeared for the defendant government agent in charge of railroads, moved to set aside the verdict as excessive pointing out that in the complaint in the O'Brien case it was alleged that she had been unable to, and now was unable to do her usual work and that she might not be able to do such work for such time. Mr. Van Etten pointed out that Miss O'Brien was now working at her usual work as a school teacher and that she had been so doing for some time and that during the time which has elapsed since the accident her salary had been increased considerably over that which she was receiving at the time she was injured. In the Tosskey case he also argued the judgment was excessive.

Judge John G. Van Etten, who argued the motion for Mr. Grogan, asked that the judgment be confirmed as he believed the judgment was substantiated by the evidence in the case. Miss O'Brien was now teaching the same grade which she had first begun to teach after the accident and since that time there had been no normal advance such as should come. Miss O'Brien he argued had been prevented from advancing as she probably would have had her physical condition not been weakened by the accident. Her increase in wages he said had been due to the advancement in general of wages and not to advancement in position. He asked that the verdict stand as he believed that the verdict in both the O'Brien and the Tonskey cases had been substantiated by the evidence.

Judge Staley after listening to both motions accepted the verdict of the jury in so far as it applied to the Kingston Trolley Company. The trolley company one of the defendants was relieved from responsibility by the verdict of the jury and the verdict brought in by the jury was against the agent of the railroad.

Judge Staley said that he believed the verdicts in both cases were excessive and unless the plaintiffs within ten days agreed to accept a reduction as recommended by the court the verdict in both cases would be set aside. In the O'Brien case unless the plaintiff agrees to accept $7,500 and in the Tonskey case unless plaintiff agrees to accept $1,000 the verdicts of the jury will be set aside.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Frankfort, Germany, Dec. 27.—The Frankfurter Zeitung claimed today to have authentic information that the bulk of French and Belgian troops will evacuate the Ruhr beginning January 11.

LIEUT. WOOD'S SPECULATION ENDS

Stopped When Ordered to do so After Making From $800,000 to $1,200,000 in Wall Street—No Violation of Law, but a Bad Example.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, Dec. 27.—When Secretary of War Weeks ordered Lieutenant Osborne Wood, 26 year old son of General Leonard Wood, governor-general of the Philippines to cease his speculations in Wall street, he sent supplementary "instructions" to General Wood to see that the order was obeyed, it was learned today.

Verification by Secretary Weeks that Lieutenant Wood had made a fortune of from $800,000 to $1,200,000, resulted in the dispatch of the war secretary's orders.

The spectacular operations of Lieutenant Wood, involving the carrying of margins of hundreds of thousands of dollars, were first brought to the attention of the war department last September Weeks said today.

Quiet inquiries were made at that time, it was said, and while these showed that Lieutenant Wood's transactions were all "regular" never-the-less Weeks considered that it was inadvisable to have the lieutenant continue because of his own and his father's official position in the Philippines and the likelihood of charges being made that might reflect on the Wood administration.

So far as the war department is concerned, Weeks said today, the matter is a closed incident. Lieutenant Wood is understood to have made no turns in the market after receipt of the secretary's order to stop.

Whether congress will take any steps to an investigation of Wood's transactions appeared uncertain here today.

In view of the wide publicity that young Wood's delaings have received, some Republican leaders were inclined to the belief today it would be better to have a full investigation by a congressional committee and to that end are inclined to support the Frear resolution.

WISE HEN SOUGHT CORN FIELD TO HATCH OUT HER FAMILY

When Shock Was Lifted Out Strutted Mrs. Bantam and Offspring.

The other day men in the employ of Charles Lay on the Saugerties road, were busy removing the shocks of corn fodder from the field and storing them in the barn.

As one of the men lifted one of the shocks he was startled by hearing a whir of wings and an angry cluck, and out from under the shock strutted a bantam hen followed by a brood of seven young chicks.

Although the nights have been cold and chill recently the bantam hen had chosen a warm and cosy place in which to hatch her young. She was also wise in picking out a corn field where it was easier to pick up food for herself.

The bantam and her brood have been placed in warm quarters for the winter by Mr. Lay and mother and children are reported as doing finely.

MALDEN YOUTH IS SEVERELY PUNISHED

Because Bruce Terwilliger, of Malden was found guilty of trespassing and committing misch f in the school building, Justice Wiley stipulated that the boy should remain at home after the hour of 8, four nights in the week. The other three nights he may stay away from home until 10; these nights are those in which he performs his duties as sexton in a local church. Bruce must also have a clean record in deportment. He may not attend any entertainments without special permission from the magistrate. The latter explained that failure to follow these instructions might result in a jail sentence of six months or a fine of $50.

NO NEWS OF LOST FRENCH DIRIGIBLE

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Paris, Dec. 27.—The fate of the French dirigible Dixmude, which has been missing nine days with fifty persons on board, promised today to become an unsolved mystery.

While hope for the ship has been abandoned, the ministry of marine has not yet given up hope that some or all the crew and passengers may yet be found alive.

Taken Ill on Street.

This morning H. L. Sisson, a guest of Hotel Ulster, was seized with a fit on the street and removed to the Kingston City Hospital by Officer Charles Murphy. Later Mr. Sisson had recovered sufficiently to return to the hotel.

THREE NEGROES ARE SENTENCED

6 Months For Raglan, Gun Toter, Brown Sent To Elmira and Houston To Dannemora—Robb Case to County Court.

In supreme court Wednesday afternoon three criminal cases were disposed of when the prisoners were sentenced by the court. One of the prisoners was sentenced by Judge Staley to Clinton State prison at Dannemora, a second was sent to Elmira and the third was given a jail sentence. All of the men arraigned were colored. A fourth had his case put over until county court convenes when he entered a plea of not guilty.

Louis Raglan, indicted for carrying a revolver in this city without a license, pleaded guilty to the charge. He is 24 years old and has been in jail 45 days. He has one other conviction standing against him, that of assault, third degree. He was handed out a 6 months' sentence in the county jail. Raglan said he had purchased his revolver from a small order house in Chicago. In this state a permit must be secured before a gun can be purchased but this fact is evidently overlooked by the Chicago supply house which annually sells a large number of revolvers to all classes of people in this state.

Joseph Brown, indicted for burglary in the third degree in entering the residence of Police Officer Emrott on Brewster street this city and stealing the officer's overcoat, had entered a plea of guilty. Brown who is 22 years old said he had never been convicted before. He was sent to the Elmira State Reformatory until discharged by law.

George Houston, indicted for grand larceny in the second degree in stealing $314 from Jacob Thompson on November 14 at the town of Shandaken, had entered a plea of guilty when arraigned. He stated that he had been arrested in Philadelphia on two occasions. He denied serving 9 months in jail in 1921. In 1922 he admitted serving 30 days in jail in the same city. He denied that a photograph shown was his. Houston is 26 years old. The sentence of the court was that he be confined in the Clinton State Prison at Dannemora for a term of 3 years.

The case of Floyd Robb, colored, indicted for grand larceny in the first degree in stealing an automobile valued at $600 in this city on November 12, was transferred to county court. Robb is alleged to have taken the car of Parles Williams. He was represented by Andrew J. Cook.

At the conclusion of the arraignments by District Attorney Traver the court again took up the Spellman will contest. This case will require the attention of the court until it adjourns on Friday for the term.

CLINTON AVENUE CHURCH CHRISTMAS ENTERTAINMENT

Pastor and Superintendent Are Remembered as Well as Classes.

The annual Christmas entertainment at the Clinton Avenue M. E. Church was held Wednesday evening and proved to be a big success. The large main auditorium of the church was completely filled with the children, their parents and friends of the school.

A program consisting of Christmas carols and recitations was given. The closing number was a dialogue by the members of the school entitled, "The Children's Christmas Dream." The entire program was very nicely rendered and was followed by the annual visit of Santa Claus who received a warm welcome. Santa Claus distributed presents to members of the primary department and gifts to the teachers and classes.

The pastor was presented with a purse of gold and the superintendent was given a Masonic ring from the members of the school, the presentation speech being made by LeRoy Port, treasurer of the school.

The entire program reflected great credit upon the committee which had the affair in charge. Decorations were very elaborate, consisting of the usual Christmas greens and the large Christmas tree, which occupied one side of the pulpit.

A special collection for the Japanese Relief fund was taken up and amounted to considerably over $100.

MORRIS MILLER HAS HEARING ADJOURNED FOR ONE WEEK

Morris Miller, who was arrested earlier in the week by Officer Rosdell, had his hearing adjourned until a week from today on a charge of reckless driving. The adjournment was taken as Miller's attorney, Frank W. Brooks, is busy in supreme court.

Patrick Hickey, arrested Christmas eve on a charge of public intoxication, forfeited cash bail of $20 when he failed to appear before Judge Schirick today. Hickey works in Gilboa.

JAPANESE CABINET RESIGNS WHEN GUNMAN'S BULLET MISSES PRINCE

Hirohito Assailed on Way to Open Parliament—He Is Unhurt But Aide Is Wounded—Would-be Assassin is Captured.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Tokio, Dec. 27.—The Japanese cabinet following a prolonged session resigned late today as a result of an attempt to assassinate Hirohito, prince regent of Japan, as he was proceeding to the Diet chambers to convoke the 48th Diet session.

The prince regent was uninjured the assassin's bullet which shattered the glass of the limousine but Grand Chamberlain Irie who was riding with him, was slightly injured.

Daisuke Namiwa, 25, who fired at the Japanese ruler, was captured immediately after the attempted assassination, being saved by the police from the menacing crowd which closed in about him. His two companions, however, escaped.

Namiwa walked jauntily from the crowd which the police had pressed back from the tram stop, carrying apparently a walking stick which was in reality a revolver.

Proclaiming to the crowd that he was a son of a member of the Diet and "knew what he was doing," Namiwa fired point blank at the Prince Regent whose automobile was directly abreast the would-be slayer.

Namiwa, or Namba, is well educated. Police investigation bore out his claim that he was a son of a member of the lower house of the imperial Diet.

Police are withholding a lengthy statement which he made following his arrest.

The prince regent after returning to the palace with wounded chamberlain proceeded to the Diet chambers and delivered his speech, appearing to be the calmest person in the assemblage.

All newspapers in Tokio carrying the story were suppressed. The metropolitan chief of police, assuming full responsibility, resigned immediately.

BELOW ZERO IN NORTHWEST

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Minneapolis, Dec. 27.—Sub-zero temperatures and heavy snows, the first of the long delayed winter weather but the northwest today.

Temperatures of 14 to 20 below zero were received this morning in northwest Canadian provinces, and with strong north winds prevailing the entire northwest in the United States is due for a protracted cold spell, it was forecast.

A heavy snow fell last night in North Dakota and Northern Minnesota, with temperatures around zero.

Montana points reported several degrees below zero.

Southern Minnesota was hit by its first snow today, driven by a north wind but melting as it fell. It will be much colder and heavy snow is in prospect in this region this afternoon or tonight.

CURRENT OFFERINGS AT THE THEATERS

Opening December 31 at the Keeney Theater the management will introduce a new policy, that will bring to that theater two super pictures every week. "Flaming Youth" will be the opening picture followed by "Bad Man," "Daisy," "Potash and Perlmutter," "Annie Christie," "Black Oxen," "Three Wise Fools," "Little Old New York" and others.

"No Mother to Guide Her," a heart story put on the screen by William Fox, opened at Keeney's Wednesday. Much of the deep and searching emotional appeal that was the foundation of "Over the Hill," is apparent in this production.

At the Opera House today a new bill of vaudeville will be staged. Wednesday the weekly community store was greatly enjoyed by large audiences. The picture, which will be shown today and for the balance of the week will be "A Friendly Husband."

At the Auditorium today, Children of Jazz," with Theodore Kosloff, Ricardo Cortez, Robert Cain and Eileen Percy, a comedy-melodrama with the quaint customs of 1850 and the jazz revels of today—a real novelty.

Beginning today there is a change of the vaudeville bill at the Orpheum. Six acts are on the program, consisting of singing, dancing and comedy. The picture is "You Are in Danger." Those who remember such quaint pictures as "School Days" and "Main Street," and such books as "The Mill on the Floss" and "The Jucklins" are going to be agreeably surprised.

WATER WORKS DEPARTMENT
CITY OF KINGSTON, N. Y.
NOTICE TO BIDDERS
ADDITION TO COOPER'S LAKE DAM

Sealed proposals for furnishing all labor and materials for constructing an addition to the Cooper's Lake Dam of the Water Works Department of the City of Kingston, New York addressed to the Board of Water Commissioners will be received at the City Hall, Kingston, N. Y., until 2 p. m. February 7, 1924, and at that time and place will be opened. The bids shall be in accordance with the plans and specifications on file in the office of the Board of Water Commissioners, and at the office of Harry Barker and Robert C. Wheeler, 46 State Street, Albany, New York.

Proposals shall be made on the blank Form of Proposal accompanying this notice. Any proposal containing bids not asked for on the Form of Proposal or giving prices in words or figures or in terms given in the Form of Proposal or which is otherwise not in conformity with this Notice, may be rejected.

All bids must be made on the plans and the specifications annexed hereto. No proposal will be considered if not accompanied by a bid on the work in accordance with the Board's plans and specifications.

Each proposal shall contain the full name of every person, firm or corporation interested in the same and the address of the person or firm or the corporation bidding, and shall be accompanied by a certified check upon a National Bank or Trust Company, drawn to the order of the Board of Water Commissioners, in the sum of One Thousand ($1,000) Dollars.

The bidder to whom the contract may be awarded shall attend at the said office of the Board of Water Commissioners with the sureties offered by him within six (6) days (sundays excepted) after the date of notification by the Board of the acceptance of his proposal and there sign the contract for the work in triplicate. In case of failure so to do the bidder will be considered as having abandoned the same, and the certified check accompanying his proposal shall be forfeited to the Board of Water Commissioners.

The checks of all unsuccessful bidders will be returned upon demand after the award of the contract, and also the checks of the successful bidders upon the execution of the said contracts and the furnishing of the required bond. Before the execution of the said contracts, the successful bidder thereon shall furnish a surety company bond in the sum of fifty (50%) per cent of the price named therein, conditional upon the faithful performance of such contract. The bond shall be satisfactory to the Board of Water Commissioners both as to form and surety.

The Board will not be responsible in any manner for verbal answers to any inquiries regarding the meaning of the drawings or specifications given prior to the awarding of the contract.

BOY SCOUTS FIND LOST INDIAN CAMP AT YONKERS

Death of Woodchuck Reveals 280-Year-Old Secret

New York.—Arctomys Monax was a forest woodchuck, lean and thin as the woodland law says one should be. Last July he mysteriously disappeared from Rocky Lonesome Forest, Yonkers, where he and his ancestors had been curators or keepers of the secret location of the lost Indian village site of Armeperahin.

The Museum of Natural History troop of boy scouts, with a cabin near, interested in archaeology, never discovered the site. When any of them approached it was Mr. Monax's duty to scurry squealing from the knoll in the black dirt of which were the relics, arrowheads, worked stones, etc., noisily down through underbrush to a thicket and into his hole. He never failed to decoy invaders away from the secret.

For 280 years the Monax family had kept the secret. Even Bolton's history does not fix the location of Armeperahin, though it tells how Director Kieft of Fort Amsterdam sent Ensign Hendricks Van Dyck, with soldiers in March, 1643, to wipe out the Weckquaeskeck at Dobbs Ferry. Deceived by an Indian guide he reached the vicinity of Armeperahin, lost his way in Rocky Lonesome, and returned to Manhattan without firing a shot. The Indians deserted Armeperahin, leaving the woodchuck in charge.

Arctomys, short legs, grizzly yellow-gray coat, and black gloves on four feet, was a faithful curator until he discovered that bread and other waste food purloined from the scout camp was good. Then like Adam in Eden he grew fat and slothful. He disappeared, to the sorrow of the scouts to whom he represented the wild animals once in the Spuin woods. They hunted vainly, and broke camp.

Recently the Appalachian Mountain club's New York chapter, following Van Dyck's war trail in the rock fastnesses, solved the mystery by finding under sere brakes beside a rabbit path a pathetic little heap of bones, all that was left of Mr. Monax. Grown fat against wilderness law, apoplexy overtook him. The door of his hole closed with golden leaves, no scurrying decoy to lead them away, the Appalachian folk went up the knoll where a quick eye detected a stone-pecking implement, and the secret of 280 years was out. And now, maybe, the Museum of the American Indian, Heye Foundation, will excavate there, and all because Mr. Monax ate forbidden food.

Blacksmith Gives Up Forge to Become Mayor

London.—G. H. Colwill for many years has been foreman-blacksmith in the engine shops of the famous Mumbles railway. He served as alderman and did it so well that the citizens of Swansea elected him mayor. The photograph shows him outside his workshop just before relinquishing his job to become mayor.

Man Can Add Years to Life by Careful Living

Lima, O.—By careful living the normal man can add at least ten years to his life, Dr. Charles Mayo, famous surgeon of Rochester, Minn., declared in an address here recently to physicians, surgeons and dentists from all parts of northwestern Ohio who came here to attend a clinic as guests of the Allen County Academy of Medicine. The way to attain the extra years, Doctor Mayo said, is to be examined at least once a year by a competent physician and follow his advice.

He declared that a physical examination of most men would disclose within a year or two just when they will die and what will cause their deaths, provided they do not change their habits or meet with accident.

Doctor Mayo was the chief clinician at a goiter clinic and the guest of honor and principal speaker at a dinner given by the medical society.

Guns Sink Blazing Ship.

Bastia, Corsica.—The Dutch steamer Ryperkerk was sunk in part here by gunfire of the Dutch naval training ship Trom. The Ryperkerk had been burning several days and efforts to extinguish the blaze in her cargo of cotton, wool, skin, silk and nuts had failed.

OSTEOPATHY HALF A CENTURY IN EXISTENCE NEW YEAR'S

A reminder that osteopathy is nearing the end of the first 50 years of its existence has been received by Dr. George S. Warren of this city, a graduate of the original school of osteopathy, in the form of a Christmas greeting as follows:

December 25, 1923.

Dear Dr. Warren:

The American School of Osteopathy—the parent institution—extends to its graduates and all members of the osteopathic profession, best wishes for a happy Christmas time.

May the new year, the fiftieth anniversary of osteopathy, bring to you a better and broader conception of the science as founded by Dr. Andrew Taylor Still; may you enjoy the best of health; may prosperity and happiness come to you through this and the coming years.

Let us include in our New Year resolution, the desire for closer unity and a renewed interest to carry on the true osteopathic principles as given by the founder.

Yours very truly,
American School of Osteopathy,

Secretary-Treasurer.

HOW else could you hear such a program of music as is represented by this list of new Victor Records? Where else could you find so great a company of artists as that listed in the Victor Record Catalogs?

Remember, however, that what they did was done with Victor equipment in Victor laboratories for use with Victrola instruments. Twenty-one Victrola styles to choose from—each designed and made especially to reproduce Victor Records.

Red Seal Concert and Operatic

		DOUBLE-FACED Number	List Price
Spiagge Amate (Beloved Country) (from "Paris and Helen") (Gluck) In Italian — Hulda Lashanska Lungi dal Caro Bene (When Two Hearts that Love are Parted) (Secchi) In Italian — Hulda Lashanska		964	$1.50

Two lyric soprano numbers of pure, noble, unadorned, melodic outline, the first one from an old opera of Gluck's.

My Joys (Chopin-Liszt) P. o Solo Berceuse (Lullaby) (Chopin) Piano Solo	Ignace Jan Paderewski Ignace Jan Paderewski	6428	2.00

These recordings represent the present apex of artistic achievement. To hear them is like taking music direct from the soul of the composer.

Melodious Instrumental

"1812" Overture—Part 1 (Tschaikowsky) "1812" Overture—Part 2 (Tschaikowsky)	Victor Symphony Orchestra Victor Symphony Orchestra	35729	1.25

Tschaikowsky's picturesque battle-overture, with the "Marseillaise" and the old Imperial Russian Hymn. A stirring number, and exceedingly dramatic and vivid.

Light Vocal Selections

A Hundred Years from Now A Song Without Words	Elsie Baker Elsie Baker	45372	1.00

Elsie Baker sings, with rare sympathy, of memories, hopes and future fears.

So This is Love (from "Little Miss Bluebeard") I Won't Say I Will (from "Little Miss Bluebeard")	Irene Bordoni Irene Bordoni	19199	.75

First Victor record by this remarkable French comedienne, one of the figures of the light-comedy stage today. Two songs from "Little Miss Bluebeard," in which she is featured.

Humorous Selections

When It's Night-time in Italy It's Wednesday Over Here Lovey Came Back	Lou Holtz Lou Holtz	19205	.75

Lou Holtz is back on the job with some original and very tuneful nonsense, and a mock-serious blues song.

Dance Records

One Hour of Love—Waltz Nights in the Woods—Fox Trot	David H. Silverman and His Orchestra	19200	.75

Smooth, slow, delightful numbers, with double melodies, and interesting instrumental combinations.

Dream Daddy—Fox Trot The Only Girl—Fox Trot	Jack Chapman and His Drake Hotel Orchestra	19201	.75

First Victor record by Jack Chapman and His Drake-Hotel Orchestra of Chicago. Excellent numbers for the fox trot.

Tweet, Tweet—Fox Trot I've Been a Fool—Fox Trot	The Manhattan Merrymakers The Manhattan Merrymakers	19203	.75

"You can't have a good fox trot without jazz?" This record will show you! "Listen to the Mocking Bird" with whistled warblings, then a smooth dance.

Take, Oh Take Those Lips Away—Fox Trot (from "Ziegfeld Follies") A Love Song—Fox Trot (from "The Magic Ring")	Brooke Johns and His Orchestra The Manhattan Merrymakers	19204	.75

A fox trot from "The Ziegfeld Follies" and one from "The Magic Ring." Most brilliant dance numbers!

ROSENDALE.

Rosendale, Dec. 27.—The congregational supper and the Christmas entertainment of the Baptist Church were held on Wednesday evening, December 26th, at the church.

Miss Emily S. Burnett, superintendent of schools of this district, visited this school on Tuesday last.

Mr. and Mrs. William B. Snyder, Jr., of Schenectady spent the week end and Christmas with their parents in this village.

Mr. and Mrs. John Ollry left for their new home in Connecticut the past week.

Miss Viola Moore left on Saturday to spend the holidays with relatives in Peekskill.

Harry and Fannie Ten Hagen spent Christmas with Aunt Lida Roost and family.

The many friends of Mrs. John Mac Glasson were sorry to hear of her severe illness the past week at her home in Poughkeepsie. All hope to hear of her recovery soon.

Mrs. Kate Wright, who has been pending the past month with her son and family at Harrison, New Jersey, has returned to her home in this village.

The Misses Swan of New York city are spending the holidays with their sister, Mrs. Alan Mackenzie in this village.

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Turner of Walden have been guests of relatives in this village a few days the past week.

Mr. and Mrs. Emzy Lewis spent Christmas with their daughter, Mrs. John Osterhoudt.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Hough have been entertaining their son from the city the past week.

James McClafferty's house presents a fine appearance with the new coat of paint and is a great improvement to the lower part of the village. George Mattman did the work.

Mr. and Mrs. Hermier of Depot Hill have gone to the city to spend the holidays with their daughter and husband.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Wesp entertained guests from the city over the week end.

The sacrament of the Lord's Supper will be observed at the Reformed Church on Sunday morning, January 6, at 10:45 o'clock. It is hoped as many of the members of the church as can will try and be present at this service.

Mr. and Mrs. George Mattman spent Christmas with relatives at Poughkeepsie.

The village school opens on January 2nd after the holiday vacation.

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Tilson motored to Kingston Christmas morning and spent the day with Mr. and Mrs. Harry DuBois.

There was a large attendance at the midnight Mass held in St. Peter's Church on Monday, Christmas Eve. Several from the sister churches attended this solemn service.

Mr. and Mrs. William B. Snyder returned to their home in Schenectady on Tuesday evening.

Miss Caroline G. Anderson expects to spend a part of her holiday vacation with friends on Long Island.

Alan Mackenzie, who recently purchased the property opposite St. Peter's Church, has begun clearing the lot off and will in the near future erect a fine bungalow. It is an ideal spot and when finished undoubtedly will be one of the finest properties in the village.

Lloyd Lefever who is attending school at Troy is spending the holidays with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Lefever of this village.

Miss Agnes McGinn, who has a position at Peekskill, is spending the holidays at her home in this village.

NEW HURLEY

New Hurley, Dec. 26.—Alta and Crosby Wilkin spent Christmas with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Wilkin.

John Powell of Leptondale visited with Mr. and Mrs. Edward Powell on Sunday.

The Circle will meet at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wyant Courter on New Year's Eve, December 31st. Each member is requested to bring a ten cent article. All young people welcome.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Schoonmaker expect to attend the wedding of their son, Gerow to Miss Kathryn Smith of Castile, N. Y., on Saturday, December 29 at 4 o'clock.

Testing Fish.

Sailors have a very simple, and what is said to be a very effective way of determining the edible or non-edible qualities of any new varieties of fish they may happen to run across. In the water in which the fish is boiled is placed a bright silver coin. If the coin retains its natural color during the boiling process, the fish is good to eat. But if it turns dark, the food is rejected.

KINGSTON, N. Y., DEC. 27, 1923.

Eugene V. Debs's announcement that he will not vote for Henry Ford is superfluous. Everybody knows that Debs is not in the habit of voting for anybody but himself.

Statistics indicate that the "old-fashioned winter" of legend was very much like the new-fashioned, and that when the average temperature by years is considered the only wonder is that the variation is no greater.

According to former Senator O'Gorman, Democrat, there was "little in the President's message that a good Democrat could not approve." Which shows that nobody in any party likes to pay unnecessary taxes.

According to Senator Reed of Pennsylvania "a progressive is a man who wants to go somewhere without knowing where." As an accurate description of many a so called progressive this leaves nothing to be desired.

HUNGER AND DOPE.

Our attention having so long been fixed on the undernourished in Europe, most American readers will be surprised to hear that undernourishment is widely prevailing in all lands, even in the United States, the richest country in the world, that it is a world-wide phenomenon affecting "wet" countries as well as "dry," that the craving for narcotics and the vast increase in drug addiction are due to this and not to the prohibition of spirituous liquors as has so often been claimed. Widespread recklessness, abnormal cravings and abuse of drugs are the result of "lack of adequate food supplies in proper variety," according to Courtenay de Kaib, who writes in the Manufacturers' Record; and that is why, he says, all countries are reporting a sudden and alarming increase in disastrous consumption of "dope" or drugs.

But why is all this so "sudden"? When did "adequate food in proper variety" fail to be within reach of a vast number of people even here in America, with its bountiful crops and relatively luxurious living? Or is food adulteration the cause? Are the people being cheated out of proper sustenance by profit-seeking commercial ghouls? And how are we to know that the food we consume is not performing the service expect of it? What, in a word, are the warning signs of undernourishment? This alarmist article on hunger and "dope" suggests many questions which its author fails to answer, although it may be possible that there is considerable basis of fact for much that he says. Until there is reliable confirmation of his view no public awakening is likely and most people will continue light-heartedly in their present course.

HIGHJACKERS.

The pirate's song in "Treasure Island," with its "Yo-ho-ho and a bottle of rum" refrain, could be brought up to date and made to apply on both land and sea at the present time. For now there are not only pirates who attack and rob the rum-running craft off our coast but "highjackers" or highwaymen who waylay, hold up and rob the liquor-laden automobiles and trucks crossing the border from Canada to the United States. A recent dispatch from Malone, N. Y., a town near the border, stated that "the busy Canadian bootleg market was thrown into confusion at news of renewed activities of highjackers waylaying cargoes of Christmas liquor bound south." According to this dispatch, during the four months previous to December the enforcement officers in that region seized 81 automobiles carrying liquor valued at $270,000, and that during December they were making a mightier drive than ever against the illicit trade. The authorities estimate that "several hundred persons are now engaged in smuggling liquor through the northeastern frontiers."

As to the number of persons engaged in highjacking no estimate is given, but doubtless there are many of these land pirates. That they are ready to shoot if need be is indicated by the statement of the dispatch that the bootleggers live in great fear of them. They have the advantage in that the bootleggers have no legal redress. Moreover, the highjackers are not out of pocket for the liquor they annex with the aid of gunplay, and after they are in possession they incur little risk until they become bootleggers in turn and undertake to convert their spoils into cash. The fiction writer of today who deals in rum-runners, gasoline pirates, bootleggers and highjackers has material for almost as many "thrills" as could be got out of piracy and banditry in the past.

STOMACH TROUBLE—Cancer.

As cancer of the stomach is not as uncommon as we would like it to be, perhaps a few words about it might be of help.

In a person past forty who begins to have "stomach trouble" frequently, there is always the possibility of this condition.

Now as an early diagnosis may mean the saving of a life, it is foolish not to face the matter squarely.

The symptoms are usually characteristic, and a careful watch will generally straighten out the diagnosis.

There is usually a "full" feeling right after eating, as if the food taken was too much for the stomach. It is often called a pressure feeling. Pain comes on a little later. You will remember that with ulcer, the food usually relieved the pain.

Another very noticeable thing is the loss of appetite. In other forms of stomach trouble the patient often feels like eating, but in this condition he doesn't want anything. He particularly dislikes meat.

Then there is vomiting which is nearly always present. The vomited matter resembles coffee grounds often. There seems to be an oozing of blood always, because the stools show dark blood also.

Then despite the food he eats he begins to lose weight rapidly. Often this is hard to understand because notwithstanding the vomiting he seems to retain a fair portion of the food taken.

This loss of weight is quite marked and the loss of strength seems to go hand in hand with it.

About this time also his friends will begin to tell him that he looks "bad." That he has a "bad color."

This pale almost yellow color is quite characteristic of cancer.

Now what about it?

Well, you can see that this growth or overgrowth as you may call it is inside the body, and is on a mucous lining.

If he decides to wait until he gets all the above symptoms, losing strength and weight all the time, he is simply taking an awful chance with his life.

The best plan is for him to watch himself closely, keep intestine clear, and eat small meals frequently. If there be no improvement then see the family doctor, tell him the complete history and symptoms and leave the case with him.

He will likely have an X-Ray meal taken.

If he thinks surgical interference will save the patient he will lose no time about it. At present it is the only known cure for early cancer.

HOW

THE "MOVIES" CAN GUARD ACTORS' EYES FROM RAYS.

—The ultra-violet rays from the powerful lights used in taking motion pictures form a real menace against the eyes of the star and super alike, producing a condition of partial temporary blindness known as "Kleig eyes." This condition can be cured, but this requires no exposure to the lights during the cure, thus losing much valuable time, while the eye is likely to be permanently weakened thereafter.

To combat this condition an eyewash has been provided which checks the action of the ultra-violet rays; but this wash also weakens the eye and it is necessary to apply it for every change of scene, as it is rapidly washed away.

Screens for the lamps themselves have not proved practical. The screen cuts off so much of the photographic light that two lamps must be used where one was used before, and the ultra-violet rays from these two are as strong as those from only one unscreened lamp.

Spectacles for the actors are, of course, impractical.

The research departments of the great film companies are at present at work on the problem. In their success lies the only hope of safety for the eyes of the celluloid actors.

HOW "WATCH" WAS NAMED

"Personal Clocks" Were First Invented for Watchman, Hence the Name.

The New England Pilgrims hold the record as far as guarantee requirements are concerned. According to an article by Mrs. W. L. Harris in the Mentor it seems that the deacons of a certain New England church, 'way back in 1726, demanded a two-years' usage of a steeple clock as a fair trial before payment.

According to this writer "watches" were originally called personal clocks. They were first provided for the use of watchmen and then acquired the name "watches."

How to Make a Map.

One of the queerest of all the books that circulate in government departments is to be found at the ordnance survey office at Southampton, where maps are made.

At this moment the ordnance survey office is engaged in printing a wonderful array of new maps covering the whole of the country in scales ranging from one-sixteenth of an inch to the mile to twenty-five inches to the square mile.

The book contains "successive proofs" of the different maps, showing the stages through which a map goes before it finally reaches the public.

The first page shows the map printed in black ink in skeleton form, giving nothing but the names of the different places. The next page is devoted to perhaps only two thick red lines—the main roads wending their way through the particular section of the country.

The third page will show the skeleton map with the main roads printed on it, while the fourth will give four or five minor and proposed roads. The fifth will show those roads on the skeleton. The sixth page is a veritable Chinese puzzle in green—the parks and woods. The next page contains the rivers and streams of the country.

Then comes a page of blue daubs representing lakes. More daubs, this time in light and dark brown, finely tinted, appear in another page—these are the low mountains and hills; while the last page but one looks like a picture of the moon printed in a deep sepia color—the highest points of the country.

Each of the series of outlines and daubs is in turn printed on the top of the skeleton map, and the finished plate gives the map as it is issued to the public.—London Tit-Bits.

NOTICE OF BOND SALE.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN, that the undersigned, Supervisor of the town of Shandaken, in the County of Ulster, in the State of New York, will sell at public auction to the highest bidder at the front door of the County Court House in the City of Kingston, Ulster County, New York, on Monday, December 31st, 1923, at 11:00 o'clock eighteen (18) bonds of the Town of Shandaken of the par value of one thousand dollars ($1,000) each, one of the par value of one thousand dollars ($1,000) falling due and being payable on the 1st day of March of each of the years 1926 to 1943, both inclusive.

Said bonds are registered bonds and bear interest at the rate of five per cent (5%) per annum payable annually on the 1st day of March of each year.

Said bonds are issued pursuant to the provisions of Sections 97 and 98 of the Highway Law, Sections 12, 13 and 14 of the County Law and Sections 6, 7, 8, 9 and 10 of the General Municipal Law, and pursuant to an act of the Board of Supervisors passed December 21st, 1923.

Said bonds are issued for the purpose of paying for the cost of construction of a bridge across the Warnerbushkill in said town.

Said bonds cannot be sold for less than par.

The purchase price will be required to be paid at the time of the sale and other terms of sale may be obtained by applying therefor to the undersigned Supervisor.

Written proposals may be submitted in accordance with the terms of sale.

The bids for the bonds shall be in dollar sums only and not on a percentage basis.

The bonds will be first offered separately and then in block. In event the aggregate of the bids for the separate bonds exceeds the highest block bid, the bonds will be struck down to the highest bidders for the individual bonds, but in the event the highest bid for the bonds in block equals or exceeds the aggregate of the amount of the bids for the single bonds, the bonds will be struck off to the block bidder.

No bid shall be binding upon the town until the bonds have been offered both ways and actually struck off to the purchaser.

The bonds will bear date the 31st day of December, 1923.

The town will not be liable to the purchaser or any other person for any allowance for attorney's fees in relation to the bonds or for investigating the validity thereof.

Dated, December 26th, 1923.

NOV. FACTORY WAGE UNCHANGED

By Telegraph to The Freeman

Albany, Dec. 27.—Factory workers' earnings were practically unchanged from October to November in New York state. Average earnings were $27.64 in November or almost exactly the same as earnings in May. There have been small changes from month to month since that time but the level of earnings has been practically constant for months. As in recent months the changes in wage rates were negligible. Earnings in November averaged $1,61 more than in November of last year. This statement was issued today by Industrial Commissioner Bernard L. Shientag of the state department of labor.

There were many variations in earnings within the separate industries, however. The clothing trades generally were less active with an average decrease in weekly earnings of almost $2.00 between October and November. There were important decreases also in the shoe, fur and leather goods industries and in the cotton and woolen mills. These reductions were due to part-time employment which was to some extent the result of seasonal conditions and in part of dull business.

Earnings in the important metal industries remained practically unchanged. There were increases in the food industries where the lower paid employes were let go at the end of the busy season, and in the stone-cutting yards, at the end of a strike.

The decrease in the clothing trades was most marked in the women's clothing industry. Weekly earnings were $3.00 lower than in October This is one of the few industries in which earning are lower than they were a year ago. In the men's shirts and furnishings factories the decrease was over $2.00. In the New York city factories the decrease was partly due to the elimination of overtime. Upstate in the collar factories working time was also reduced. The drop in the men's clothing factories was $1.58. The decrease in the women's underwear factories was somewhat smaller. The women's headwear industry was the only one of the clothing trades to show an increase in November, and here it was partly due to the laying-off of lower paid employes.

Two industries that show marked reductions in average earnings compared with last year are the fur shops and the shoe factories. Both showed heavy reductions from October to November.

HIGH FALLS

High Falls, Dec. 26.—The Christmas entertainment which was held on Friday afternoon at the school house by the pupils was very much enjoyed by a large gathering of parents and other friends. The rooms were tastefully decorated. There was a large fire place where Santa made his appearance to the delight of the little folks. Every song and recitation showed the untiring efforts of the teachers to whom great credit is due. Each kiddie received a gift. The teachers were kindly remembered by their pupils.

Miss Gertrude Depuy is spending her holiday vacation with relatives in Kingston.

Mrs. Julia Steen and Stanley Steen and family spent Christmas with Mrs. William Pratt at Stone Ridge.

Mrs. Katheryn Joseph, who has been away on a visit for two weeks, has returned home.

Miss Alta Broadhead of Walden is spending the Christmas holidays with her parents.

Miss Harriet Church of Long Island and Franklin O. Church of Buffalo are home for the Christmas holidays.

Mr. and Mrs. George Holmes of Poughkeepsie spent the week end and Christmas at their home here.

Preston Church is confined to the house with an attack of neuritis.

Quite a number of people from this place attended the Christmas entertainment given by the pupils of the Clove school Friday night at the Clove Chapel.

The Christian Endeavor Society will hold a social in the basement of the church on Wednesday evening All are cordially invited to attend.

Mr. and Mrs. Grover Smith of Kerhonkson spent Sunday with relatives here.

The Rev. T. S. Braithwaite was entertained over Sunday at John Haines's.

Hobert Agnew is spending the Christmas holiday with his father, the Rev. W. C. Agnew.

FARMERS' WEEK DATES FORMALLY ANNOUNCED

Annual Gathering at Ithaca is Scheduled for February 11-16.

Farmers' Week at Cornell has been set for the week of February 11 to 16. Complete programs will be presented in all branches of agriculture and in home-making; and the list of distinguished speakers promises to be the best which has ever been presented to New York farmers by their college of agriculture.

Women of New York farm homes will be given opportunity to hear home economics experts of national reputation, with the specialists of the resident and field home economics staff assisting in the week's program.

Full information concerning the classroom work, lectures, entertainments, and social events planned for the six days will soon be available. Special railroad rates of one and one-half fare for the round trip from most points in New York have been obtained. Good lodging accommodations and board will be obtainable in Ithaca at reasonable prices.

OLIVE BRIDGE.

Olive Bridge, Dec. 27.—Frank Roosa, superintendent of High Point Springs Farm, recently installed a Radiola IV, with very gratifying results. Many western stations as well as the nearby ones coming in loud and clear.

Mr. and Mrs. John J. Dudrey of Brodhead are visiting their daughter, Mrs. Arker Kelder, at Napanoch for a few weeks. Mr. Dudrey is in his 81st year, hale and hearty, and a veteran of the Civil War, who saw service with the Fifth N. Y. heavy artillery.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Fawkner and Miss Ethel Roosa of Brooklyn spent the Christmas holidays with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Roosa, at High Point Springs Farms.

Mr. and Mrs. Egbert VanKleeck of Brodheads, Miss Florence Van Kleeck and Arthur McDonald of Poughkeepsie called on Mr. and Mrs. Henry Winchell on Sunday.

School will be closed during Christmas week in the Winchell district. The teacher, Mrs. Grover C. Winchell is spending part of her vacation with her parents at Kerhonkson.

Mrs. Frank Roosa has received direct from Florida a very attractive Christmas gift of a box of oranges, grapefruit, etc.

Miss Nellie Marshall, who has been at home for a few weeks, is expected soon to leave for Key West, Florida, where she plans to spend the winter.

Mrs. Annie Hyatt and son Stephen of Kingston spent Christmas with her sister, Mrs. Henry Winchell.

MORGENWECK HAD MANY PROBLEMS

During First Half Season in Developing Team—Gives Much Credit for Finishing Second—Requests Are Many for Exhibition Games.

Frank Morgenweck, manager of the local Metropolitan League team, takes no credit for his work in the first half season but gives it all to the players. In a letter received from the local manager some interesting facts are brought out relative to the difficulties of securing the services of Campbell, and his many requests for exhibition games throughout the country. He also asks cooperation in securing season tickets. Morgenweck also was instrumental in securing the change in the league rule. Following is the letter:

"The team deserves credit landing second in the race the first half. With the tremendous loss of Borgman to overcome, difficulty with Riconda, etc., to contend with, I think that it was as much a feat to reconstruct our team with the available material to make a team good enough to land second place. With a little better luck, we really should have been in first place. This morning I made a special petition on Mr. O'Brien the league president to re-consider his suspension of Campbell account of playing with the Tri-Council team in Philadelphia last night. My reason is that Doc Newman gave me the facts. It appears that Campbell was playing with this team last winter. Late in March he was stricken with appendicitis and the priest at the head of the Tri-Council team had him sent to the Catholic Hospital and paid for the operation, private room and in fact all expenses. In return he asked Campbell to play with him this winter, and Campbell gave him his promise. When we signed Campbell he thought he could arrange to be allowed to give us the preference in what few conflicting dates we have. The priest was satisfied. However, Mr. Scheffer threatened to suspend him if he missed a Philadelphia League game. Rather than go back on his word to the priest, he was willing to lose out with us where he gets more money. For this stand I therefore asked our president to consider the facts and allow him to remain in good standing with us. I also requested that when he has conflicting dates (there are five in the second half) that I be allowed to call on Newman to substitute in his place and I think it will be granted. This will make our team O. K. and we will have two equally good men in case one is unable to come.

"I have also closed for a trip to Warren, Ohio; January 12, Akron, Ohio, afternoon and night; January 13, Dover, Ohio; January 14, and Alliance, O., January 15. That will just bring us back to Kingston in time for our game January 16. Then we also go to Baltimore, Md., January 31st; Hagerstown, Md., February 1st, and Keyser, W. Va., February 2. I am getting so many requests for exhibition games that I can't fill them. I think we sure are giving Kingston a place in the sport map.

"At the meeting of the league at the Hotel McAlpin Sunday, I finally succeeded in having an amendment added to our rules making three men on a scrimmage a foul. In other words with the start of the second half we will have the old New York State League rule in effect, only two men allowed in a scrimmage. I had been working on this all winter. The managers could not see it but the games have become so rough which usually also makes them slow that I finally won them over Sunday. I think our Kingston fans will be glad to know this. Season tickets holders are asked to please cooperate with us and call for the second half tickets this week. This is necessary as in case of cancellation we can put the seats on sale for the game January 31st which will be the first home game.

GIVE DAIRY COW ALL ROUGHAGE SHE WANTS

This is Usually Safe Practice, Says Ration Expert.

Feed the dairy cow all the roughage she will eat.

Under ordinary conditions, this is safe advice, says E. S. Savage, authority on dairy rations at the state college of agriculture at Ithaca. Silage and legume hay seem the best combination. The silage should be fed at the rate of about three or four pounds a day for each hundred pounds of live weight. This will usually mean the cow will then consume about a pound and a half of hay every day for each ten pounds of live weight.

Silage's chief value is its succulence. One should avoid feeding too much of it, since it is bulky and contains a low percentage of digestible nutrients.

To make the grain ration palatable, at least three different grains should be included. Jerseys will probably need about one pound of the mixture daily for each 3 to 3½ pounds of milk produced, Holsteins and other large-typed cows will need one pound of the mixture for each 3½ to 4 pounds of milk.

CHANGE IN RULE IN MET LEAGUE

A Foul Will Be Called When Third Man Interferes When Two Other Players Have Possession—Fewer Fouls Expected and Game Much Faster.

As a means of bringing about better exhibitions of basketball in the second half of the season, the managers of the Metropolitan League decided at a meeting held at the Hotel McAlpin last Sunday afternoon to eliminate one of the principal sources of rough playing, which has evoked considerable adverse comment throughout the circuit.

During the next half of the season a foul will be called whenever a third man interferes in a scrimmage when two other players have possession of the ball. At the present time the rules provide that when the third man enters the scrimmage it shall be immediately ruled as a toss ball. This was brought about quite a little rough crashing on the part of the third in his attempt to make the play a jump, which is anything but desirable from the standpoint of the spectators.

As the present tendency of the magnates is to eradicate the fouls as much as possible, the theory of the new rule is that it will not bring about the calling of more fouls, but will speed up the play materially and make it more open, as a consequence of which fewer fouls will necessarily have to be called.

"Y" TEAMS WIN ONE OUT OF THREE

Poughkeepsie Takes 90 And 110 Pound Class Games But Kingston Noses Out In Front In Unlimited Class.

Wednesday a number of members of the local Y. M. C. A. journeyed to Poughkeepsie and took part in a basketball tourney. Poughkeepsie won the 90 pound class game and the 110 pound class game by large scores. Kingston won the unlimited by a 26 to 25 score. The game was fast and exciting throughout, Kingston coming from behind and winning in the last quarter. Clarke starred in this game, making 17 points. The lineups and scores follow:

U. C. T. ANNUAL INVITATION CHRISTMAS DANCE FRIDAY

The final preparations have been completed for the annual invitation Christmas dance of Kingston Council, No. 356, U. C. T. The local "knights of the grip" and their friends are ready for the festivities which will be held Friday evening at Pythian Hall. The committee in charge has spared no expense to make this occasion a memorable one. Zucca's singing orchestra will furnish music for dancing from 9 p. m., to after midnight. A bountiful repast will be served under direction of an experienced caterer and there will be special favors for all who attend. Tickets may be procured from members of the committee as well as from the members.

HI-Y CLUB HOLDS REUNION

"Old Timers" Join in Basketball and Social and Religious Activities—Low Speaks.

Wednesday night the Hi-Y Club held a regular meeting at the Y. M. C. A. rooms. Many of the old members were present and took part in the basketball game between the Old Timers and the present Hi-Y boys. The game was fast, the Old Timers losing 39 to 30.

Vernon Beehler, one of the Old Timers, read the Christmas story as the Scripture lesson for the night and also led in prayer.

Vice President Longyear presided in the absence of President Vogt. Longyear called on "Tom" Rowland, a former president, to say a few words. Rowland said that he was glad to be present with the Old Timers and the new timers, and hoped that the basketball game would be a good one. Former President Stumpf also said a few words.

Mr. Crowl, president of the Newburgh Hi-Y Club, spoke a few words of greeting.

Mr. Low, secretary of the Newburgh "Y," was the speaker of the evening.

Mr Low spoke about India and the conditions in that country. He said that about 40 millions of the people in India go to bed having had only one meal during the day.

Mr. Low said there are four reasons for this poverty. The first reason is the caste system of India. There are about 2,000 different castes and a person will not lower himself to a lower caste by any means nor will he permit a person of low caste to come too near him. This was illustrated by the story of a woman who belonged to a high caste. This woman was at the city well with her daughter. Her daughter fell into the well. The woman screamed and the only man in the village, a man of low caste, a sweeper, came running. The woman would not allow him to jump into the well and save her daughter because he would pollute the well.

The second reason is the worship of cows. This is a terrible economic drain, because there is a loss of about $10 per cow per year and there is very nearly a cow for every person.

There is in India a permanent unemployed list of about six millions. Most of these people are beggars who profess to be holy men. They are probably unreligious but lead the life because it is easy to get food.

The argicultural methods are undergoing a change for the better. Modern plowing equipment is being manufactured in quantity which enables the people to buy them.

Mr. Low told the story of a missionary who went into Kashmir thirty years ago. The conditions were terrible in the school which he found there. He immediately tried to get some athletics in the school but found that it was going to be hard work, because the pupils said that they did not want muscle since it was a sign of low caste. But little by little the man overcame the enmity and caste system and two years ago when Mr. Low visited the place it was a model school. Every boy in the school took part in the athletics and especially in aquatic meets. Mr. Low said that all missionaries are not so successful, but that they all have very hard jobs. Mr. Low spoke a few more words and closed wishing the Hi-Y and its members a happy and prosperous New Year.

BLOOMINGTON.

Bloomington, Dec. 26.—Mr. and Mrs. Fred Chatterton went Friday evening to the city, where they will spend the holidays with Mr. and Mrs. William Bailey.

Benjamin Bardin, village grocer and postmaster, paid a short trip to New York city for a couple of days. He returned to his home Sunday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Lefevre are entertaining her sister and husband from New Jersey and also her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Relyea from Springtown for a short stay.

Mrs. Walter Connor of Poughkeepsie spent Sunday with her mother, Mrs. Mary Relyea. She returned to her home on Monday morning.

Harvey Freidell, who has been ill for some time, is slowly improving at this writing.

People here express sympathy to Mr. and Mrs. Willis DuBois of Kingston, a former resident of this place, who buried their daughter, Mildred, Saturday in the church cemetery.

Residents were sorry to hear of the accident of Joseph Yonker who, while doing carpenter work at Kyserike, was hit in the eye with a nail. Dr. L. G. Rymph is caring for him. All hope to see him around again.

Mrs. Ralph Lefevre of Rosendale called on Mr. and Mrs. George L. Lefevre and also on Harvey Freidell and daughter, Miss Luella.

Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Stokes of Pleasantville spent the week end with her aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Ira D. Bush. All here wish Mr. and Mrs. Stokes a long and prosperous married life.

Fred Hoeger, who has a position in New York city, is spending a couple of weeks with his sister, Mrs. Carl Dambach and family. Her husband, Mr. Dambach, is spending the holidays with his family.

Martineau Grieves at Loss of "Brown Jug"

The "little brown jug," emblematic of football rivalry between Michigan and Minnesota, never was transferred from van quished to victor with more pathos than after the 1923 game at Ferry field, according to a story going the rounds of the Big Ten coaches here in schedule making.

Earl Martineau, who led Minnesota through a series of victories prior to the Michigan game, earned six citations for valor in battle in France. When a possible tie for the championship honors of the Big Ten football season of 1923 had slipped from the Gophers' grasp after a desperate struggle, Martineau, as the defeated captain, with tears in his eyes, carried the "little brown jug" across to Kipke of Michigan, the victor, but was too near a breakdown to speak.

M'COY WAS TRICKIEST OF LARGER FIGHTERS

Adept at Getting Other Fellow's Nerve in Ring.

Kid McCoy was one of the trickiest of the larger fighting men. Wasn't anything in the art of getting the other fellow's nerve that McCoy failed to employ when a fight was on. Those who remember his "comeback"—the night he met big Jim Stewart in Philadelphia—will never forget how the bout began.

In the first place, McCoy made certain that he would be the first to enter the ring. Once in there he went into the first corner that came to hand and sat huddled in his bathrobe talking to imaginary friends around the ring.

When Stewart entered he noticed that McCoy had not turned to greet him, so he stalked across the canvas and held out his hand. McCoy kept on talking to the mythical cronies. Finally Stewart reached down and touched McCoy on the shoulder with the meek remark! "Here I am, Mister McCoy." Mister McCoy looked over one shoulder, ignored the hand and said, "Oh, hello, boy!" and then turned away.

He figured that the action would either enrage or intimidate Stewart. While waiting in the center for instructions, McCoy deliberately stepped on Stewart's corns. The referee gave his version of one-hand free hitting.

McCoy reached up like a flash and jerking Stewart's head down with a grip about the neck, remarked: "Does this constitute one-hand holding?" By this time poor Stewart's nerves were so badly shattered that McCoy had no difficulty in whipping him in a limited bout.

Speaker Isn't Counting on Stanley Coveleskie

Tris Speaker, manager of the Cleveland Indians, declared it his belief that the Cleveland club would be stronger next year than it was this, basing his prediction upon the opinion the pitching staff would be stronger. And he is not counting on Stanley Coveleskei, either, for he says no reliance can be placed on the phenomenal spitball pitcher until he has had a chance to get into shape and show.

Speaker sent his veteran pitchers to Hot Springs on February 1 last year for an extra month of training. Next February he will send all the pitchers he is counting on for work in the campaign to Hot Springs, being satisfied with his experiment of last year.

Sheely Is Kept Out of Limelight by Bad Ankle

Only a bad ankle keeps Earl Sheely of the White Sox from being one of the most-talked-about first-sackers in the history of the game. Eddie Collins says he is one of the greatest first basemen he ever played with or against. Some compliment, since so great a player as Stuffy McInnes was once a side-kick of Eddie's. Aside from being a great fielder, Sheely is noted for his ability to hit in a pinch.

Coal Tar.

Until about the middle of the Nineteenth century coal tar was regarded as a waste product and thrown away or burned under the retorts, but beginning in 1846 its value was discovered and it was first used in Germany for making roofing felt.

The first exhibition of lighting the streets of London by gas took place on the king's birthday, June 4, 1807. The lights consisted of a row of lamps in front of the colonnade before Carleton house, London.

CHRISTMAS BEAUTY

"Well," said Santa Claus as he started out on his rounds, "how beautiful it all is!

"Really I never saw such a sunset as I saw tonight.

"Mr. Sun had on the most gorgeous robe of brilliant red and rose and lavender. And the Snow photographers took snapshots of him.

"Yes, you could see the colors in the snow. Of course the snapshots only lasted until Mr. Sun went to bed, but that is the way the Snow photographers do things.

"Hurry along, my beautiful reindeer. You add so much to all this glory.

"The white patches of snow are so lovely in between the trees in the woods.

"Patches are very useful and very necessary, but old King Snow is the only one who knows how to make really pretty patches.

"Ah, Mr. Sun has sent forth the Sundown Fairies, and I see they are scampering about the sky. They, too, are wearing crimson and red and lavender and purple and gray and Queen Glow is walking over King Snow's face, and they are both laughing, I see!

"The fields and the trees have been visited by King Snow and some of the Snow children have gone to make long visits in the crevices and nooks and are having talks with the trees about them, too.

"Such great distances as can be seen! It is so wonderful!

"Ah," Santa Claus continued, "I think of all the carpets I've ever seen there is nothing like a Snow Field carpet. It's the very kind I admire most."

Santa Claus was chatting to himself and to the reindeer as they hurried over the snow. While it was still day-

Down Chimneys He Went.

light Santa Claus was only where there were no houses.

But soon it would be dark. Oh, yes, the darkness came very soon at this time of the year.

The Night Twins, Darkness and Evening, were in a hurry these nights.

And Santa Claus would be all ready to begin his work.

He passed along a lake which was frozen over and saw that there was a big wagon on the frozen lake. And the wagon was carrying a boat.

Santa Claus laughed at that.

"I'm sure the water must be laughing underneath the ice, too," he chuckled, "at the thought of a boat having a sleigh-ride.

"It is a newly built boat—built on the land, of course. Well, that boat will not feel at home at first when it gets launched into the water!

"Ah, now, my reindeer, we must be getting to work. It is becoming quite dark."

So the reindeer hurried and Santa Claus worked and went to house after house. Down chimneys he went and down fire escapes of city houses.

And never a place did he miss where there were children.

As he came out of each place the reindeer looked at him. For his smile seemed to become happier and happier all the time.

"Oh, Reindeer," he would say, "I have just seen the loveliest little girl. She has blue eyes and golden hair. Maybe her eyes are gray. But I think they are blue!

"You see her eyes were closed so I couldn't see them very well, but I lifted one ever, ever so slightly and it seemed to be blue—though the light wasn't so very good and I couldn't see so very clearly.

"But she was lovely!

"There was the finest looking boy I've almost ever seen," Santa would say coming from another house.

And he would make these same remarks over and over again so that the reindeer were very much amused, but they enjoyed it all.

"Well," said Santa when they had finished everything, "it strikes me that there is more beauty at Christmas time than at any time of the year.

"Nature certainly does her part—but the children are the most beautiful part of all the Christmas beauty, yes indeed they are!"

Valuable Knowledge Gained.

"Well, Freddie," said his mother, "did you learn anything new at school today?"

"Yes'm," said Freddie.

"What did you learn new?"

"I got onto a new way o' gettin' out o' school fer an hour, by snuffin' red ink up me nose."

All There.

A well-known singer was in a motor-car accident. A paper, after recording the accident, added: "We are happy to state that he was able to appear the following evening in four pieces."

THE KITCHEN CABINET

It is the greatest of all lies that any two human beings can think alike in everything.—Raden Kartini.

SAUCES FOR VARIOUS DISHES

The appropriate sauce to serve with fish, flesh or fowl is very important to understand. If one has a list of one or two for use with the various foods they will add variety to the menu.

Shrimp Sauce (for Fish).—Measure one-third of a cupful of butter and melt half of it; add three tablespoonfuls of flour and cook until smooth and well-blended; then add one pint of boiling water and cook until slightly thickened; when smooth, add the rest of the butter in small pieces and stir until all is absorbed. Add one cupful of shrimps, two teaspoonfuls of lemon juice, one-half teaspoonful of salt and a few dashes of cayenne. Just before taking from the fire add a teaspoonful of kitchen bouquet.

Flemish Sauce (for Beef or Veal).—Cook one cupful of finely-cut carrot until tender; drain and reserve one and one-quarter cupfuls of the carrot water. Melt two tablespoonfuls of butter; add two tablespoonfuls of flour. When well-blended add the carrot water, boiling hot; stir until slightly thickened. Add the cooked carrot, one tablespoonful of minced pickle, one-half tablespoonful of finely-minced parsley, one tablespoonful of grated horseradish, and salt and pepper to taste. Season with a dash of worcestershire sauce.

Oyster Sauce (for Chicken, Turkey or Fish).—Parboil a pint of oysters in their own liquor for a minute, or until their edges curl; drain, saving the liquor. Melt two tablespoonfuls of butter, add two tablespoonfuls of flour; stir and cook, then add the oysters and the liquor, adding water enough to make a pint of both oysters and liquor. Season with tabasco, a teaspoonful of kitchen bouquet; add two more tablespoonfuls of butter in small pieces, until all is melted. Remove from the heat and add a beaten egg yolk. Serve hot.

Lobster Butter.—Clean and wipe the coral and force through a fine sieve. Put into a mortar with one-quarter of a cupful of butter; pound until well-blended. Use in lobster soup or sauce to give color.

WOMEN FOLLOW FASHION ROUTE TO MATRIMONY

As the Canadian Mounted Police say: "Get your man." Claims that the modern American girl has purloined this motto are made freely to which has been added: "At any reasonable cost." Sound intellects rotate to the theory that the money women spend for clothes is really a gamble in the matrimonial lottery. Whether men are worth the effort it requires to shake them off the bough is a matter of individual opinion. A jury composed of men would probably vote, "Not guilty," with a recommendation for mercy. There is little doubt, according to the best authorities on the workings of the feminine brain, that women prefer married life to even the best advantages offered in the business world. That they are cruelly disillusioned is often the case.

Too many of the young men to-day who think they are looking for wives are in reality questing for some means of support. "I adore you—but don't give up your job," may be the accepted form of proposal in the future. For years men have been tossing their pay envelopes to their wives. There is no doubt than the jingle is in the other lap in a great many cases today.

A Western professor turns the crank and the film shows another topic of the times in a new garb.

"Women are spending more money, time and care on clothes now than ever before," says Dr. A. E. Ross, professor of social psychology in the University of Wisconsin. "One woman increases the number of gowns and another must follow suit or lose out in the race for matrimonial supremacy."

Just what Dr. Ross means by "the race for matrimonial supremacy" needs explanation, no doubt. It involves several things, primarily the changed economical position of the woman of today. Compare the contribution of the modern woman to marriage with that of her great grandmother.

The woman of 150 years ago made the cloth for her clothes, as well as the clothes; she made the quilts, soap, candles and the butter. The hands of the wife produced about half of the things used in the house. New methods have freed the woman of much manual labor. The things which she used to make she purchases now with the money of her husband. Prices have risen, luxuries have become neccessities and marriage as an economical or financial proposition, has little attraction for the man.

"Economically speaking, marriage is like taking a burden on the shoulders of the man," says Dr. Ross. "No longer are a woman's domestic virtues and accomplishments dominating factors in the winning of a husband. It is woman's charm, her personality, her social graces which make her a desirable wife.

It is not natural then that women should occupy themselves so much of the time with enhancing their beauty by every possible means, and by the best possible means—lovely clothes. The more attractive a woman is, the greater her chance to defeat a known or unknown rival for the man she wants to marry.

But what of the women who support themselves and do not wish to marry? Surely they are not slaves of fashion. To this question Dr. Ross replies: "In spite of the golden opportunities, business and otherwise, that are open to women now, I do not believe that self-support is so attractive to the average woman as marriage." Thus it is that the matrimonial race is run on the field of fashion.

What about the man? Statistics show that of girls between 15 and 24 years old, half were married in 1910 as against 47 per cent 20 years earlier. For the husband seeker, this is quite encouraging. Perhaps, after all, in a man-made world a woman with a little powder, a little paint and a Lucile gown may triumph.

GENERAL WOOD'S SON MAKES $800,000.

Lieut Osborne Wood.

Lieutenant Osborne Cutler Wood, son and aide of Governor-General Leonard Wood, of the Philippines, is soon to resign from the army to seek a diplomatic career. Young Wood, only 26, has "cleaned up" $800,000 by stock market transactions. General Wood, a man of small means himself, put an end to his son's financial transactions, believing it unwise for a young man to make so great a fortune rapidly. Certain gossip caused the War Department to make an investigation, which resulted in showing that Lieutenant Wood's transactions had been absolutely legitimate and straightforward stock deals, in which he showed remarkable financial acumen. None of his dealings were in Philippine securities, Lieutenant Wood believing it wrong to deal in stocks which might be influenced by any of his father's official actions. Young Wood, a Harvard graduate, enlisted as a private in 1918, but failed to get overseas. He was appointed a Second Lieutenant of Infantry on his twenty-first birthday, in September, 1918.

MORAN BUSINESS SCHOOL BEGINS ITS TENTH YEAR

After rounding out the most successful period in its history, the Moran Business School, Fair and Main streets, recently entered upon its tenth year, having occupied, practically since its inception, the present spacious quarters in the Burgevin Building.

The school bears the name of its founder, the late John J. Moran, a name that symbolizes ideals of education and morality of the highest order. It was inevitable that, as proved by the test of time, the principles so vigorously championed by its founder should make a lasting impression on the Moran Business School. They have permeated every department of its service, with the result that each succeeding year witnesses an extension of the scope of the school's activities—an enlargement of its field of usefulness.

The management reports the following positions recently accepted:

Milton P. Townsend, until recently a student of the stenographic department, engaged as stenographic clerk with L. Barth & Son, this city.

Miss Teresa Long, graduate of the combined course, is bookkeeper and stenographer with Costello & Dugan, hardware, this city.

Donald Griffen, of the bookkeeping department, night sessions, has entered the employ of the Kingston Coal Company.

The Moran School announces through the advertising columns of today's Freeman that the opening dates for the winter term are as follows: Day school, January 2; night school, January 4.

U. S. POST OFFICE IS 284 YEARS OLD

First Station Organized in 1639 at Boston to Sell Wine and Strong Water.

Boston.—Two hundred and eighty-four years ago the first post office in the United States was established in Boston, and the celebration of the anniversary this month recalled the manner of its founding.

It had been the custom in those days for the citizens of Boston to troop on board the packets which arrived from overseas in quest of letters and other tidings from England. That was all very well for a while, but as the population grew the habit became a nuisance to the skippers, who objected to having their decks made impromptu delivery offices and the none too spacious quarters below crowded with men and women.

First Postmaster Named.

So the general court (as the Massachusetts legislature always has been called) stepped in. In 1638 it ruled that Richard Fairbanks (on the site of whose home the Boston Globe building now stands) was to take charge of and distribute letters from abroad.

"For preventing the miscarriage of letters," the quaint order read, "and it is ordered that notice be given that Richard Fairbanks his house in Boston is the place appointed for all letters which are brought from beyond the seas, or are to be sent hither, are to bee brought unto. An hee is to take care that they hee delivered or sent according to their directions, and hee is allowed for every such letter a penny."

Given Liquor Permit.

John Winthrop was governor when Fairbanks was appointed. The latter had a permit to sell "wine and strong water," and over his bar the men of Boston sipped their ale and read their mail and talked of the tidings from far away.

Fairbanks acted as postmaster until 1677. In January, 1673, the general court made provision for a domestic postal service, the carriers to be paid three pence per mile for their services. Twenty years later the American post office was established and in 1695 a coach and mail service was begun between Boston and Hartford.

Gypsies, Beggars Barred by Constantinople Police

Constantinople.—Since the municipal authorities have taken control of this city they have effected the abolition of many abuses that went untouched during the years of the allied occupation.

Most striking is the crusade against beggars who have always infested this place. Under strict police efforts they have begun to disappear, and it is now possible to walk the streets without filthy men, women and children tugging at one's coat in importunate impudence. Now the order is out that the city is to be rid of its gypsies, who are said to constitute the majority of the beggars, sneak-thieves and pickpockets that have infested the thoroughfares.

London Police Showered With Gifts by Admirers

London.—The interest and courtesy shown by the London police in the welfare of the public constantly brings its reward. This is usually expressed in bequests to policemen's funds, hospitals and homes by persons of varying circumstances, who at one time or another have been aided by policemen.

The banner day occurred recently when seven sums carrying from $100 to $15,000 were left to these organizations. One donor sent the following note with his gift:

"I do this because I have always admired the unfailing sympathy and tact of the police to both rich and poor alike."

Women Demand Right to Be Arrested Like Men

Omaha, Neb.—Women of Omaha are demanding the right to be arrested and sent to jail just like men.

The police department received orders not to arrest women traffic law violators. The women, in a petition to the police, demanded equal rights with men. "What's good for one is good for all," the petition said.

Four-Fifths of Babies in America Cow Fed

Pittsburgh, Pa.—"Eighty per cent of American babies are cow fed," said Mrs. Dora Stockman, a member of the state board of agriculture of Michigan, speaking recently before the National Grange. She is the first woman in the United States to be appointed on a state agricultural board. She added this warning:

"No improvement can be hoped for until women themselves are impressed with the sanctity and importance of the home and domestic life. Future generations must pay for present-day conditions, and the toll will be obdurate and terrible."

There's a Difference.

Jud Tunkins says when you are talking to a crowd you have to pretend to be smarter than you are, but when you're talkin' to one person it's best to let him feel that the advantage is mostly on his side—especially in a trade.

A GOWN IN WHICH TO GREET NEW YEAR

By ELEANOR GUNN.

It goes without saying that a gown in which to greet the New Year must be a gown worthwhile. The one sketched, which was designed by one of our foremost creators for one of our prominent motion picture stars, is a regal combination of golden yellow satin and silver brocade, drop pearls and fitch. Fur trimmed gowns are no novelty this winter, but nearly always elicit praise. This one is worthy of it because of the harmonious blending of color and its graceful attempt at a circular princess line.

Fur and velvet have a natural affinity one for the other, and many a combination of the two is chosen this winter for dance and dinner wear. But for that matter, there are many who subscribe to fur and chiffon and some who approve of fur with lace, silver cloth or brocade.

Judging from the gowns worn at smart functions, the strong color note and the all black gown are under temporary eclipse. Blues of the hydrangea cast, together with mauve, a good deal of rose and flame, jade and emerald green and gold tones, the latter both in velvets and metallic cloths are omnipresent at smart gatherings.

In addition to the slender frocks of velvet which are also popular, beaded frocks and sequin gowns, symphonies of one color are also sponsored, the latter in black and electric blue, for the most part. Beading appears on both velvet, crepe and georgette gowns, usually in contrast, with crystals leading. Here and there a bouffant taffeta frock is sponsored, attractively softened by the generous use of lace, either soft ecru threaded with gold or finely meshed with tinsel, as well as deep flounces at the hemline. A soft shade of grayish green combined with the gold lace seem the favorite color medium in gowns of this genre.

CARPENTER NEW GENERAL MANAGER OF PHONE CO.

Announcement of the appointment of Henry C. Carpenter to the position of general manager of the New York Telephone Company, effective January 1, was made from headquarters of the company today. Since 1919, Mr. Carpenter has been chief engineer. He will now be in charge of the company's operations, reporting to J. S. McCulloh, operating vice president.

Mr. Carpenter will be succeeded as chief engineer by George W. McRae, of Chicago, chief engineer of the Illinois Bell Telephone Company, and formerly toll traffic engineer of the American Telephone & Telegraph Company in New York.

After graduation from Columbia University in 1899, Mr. Carpenter entered the engineering department of the telephone company and rose by successive steps to the post of engineer in 1912, holding this position until 1919, when he was appointed chief engineer. Mr. Carpenter is forty-five years old and a resident of New York.

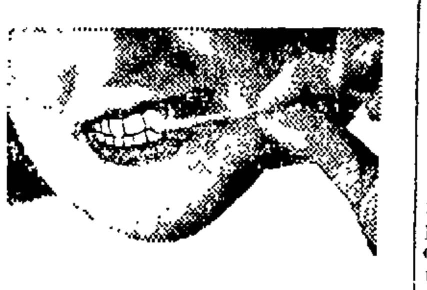
CHRISTMAS TREE AT BENEDICTINE

The Yuletide festivities at the Benedictine Hospital began on the "night before Christmas." The building throughout bore evidences of the season's influence. Willing hands had been at work and on all sides the spirit of good will and festal cheer were manifest in the artistic arrangement of the decorations. In addition to the wreaths of holly with their conventional splashes of red, the feathery pines and hemlock, which adorned the halls and corridors, there stood in each of the two wards a wonderful tree, eight feet in height, beautifully decorated with ornaments and gaily lighted electricity.

The program included the distribution of gifts presented by Mrs. May K. Gordon, which were baskets of fruit to each patient in the wards. To the men were left an extra solace in the shape of a generous supply of cigarettes.

The committee in charge, Miss Rosekrans, Mrs. John Goldrick and Mrs. John Larkin, are indebted to those who assisted by their financial aid in the decorations and warmly thank the medical staff, Dwyer Bros., Dr. C. B. Cragin, Hugh Talbot, Robert S. Rodie, Joseph M. Herbert, Sam Mann, J. Flemming, Mrs. May K. Gordon, Mrs. William Walter, Mrs. Andrew J. Cook, the Misses Rice, Mary McGill, Florence Cordts, Pearl Stock and Ida Weber.

The sisters extend their warmest greetings and thank all who have helped at this festal season to make merry at the Benedictine Hospital.



New Liquid Dissolves Teeth Stains

Whitens Dull Yellowish Teeth in 3 Minutes—Entirely Safe

Never before has it been so easy to acquire clear flashing white teeth! For scientists have discovered a new harmless treatment which dissolves teeth stains instantly, giving even the dullest teeth a charming new whiteness and lustre.

This new treatment is called Bleachodent Combination — consists of a marvelous liquid which curdles or loosens the staining substances on the teeth—and a new kind of paste which gently removes the softened stains, and if used daily, prevents the formation of new stains. Bleachodent Combination cannot affect the enamel in any way as it acts only on surface stains, not on enamel itself.

No matter how dark, stained or dingy your teeth may be you will be astonished at the results brought by the very first application of Bleachodent Combination. Tobacco and other stains disappear almost like magic. If you want sparkling, white pearly teeth—the kind everyone admires—get Bleachodent Combination today. Money refunded if not delighted. LACE CURTAIN MILLS EXPLAINS LAND PRICE.

Kingston, N. Y., Dec. 26, 1923.
Kingston Daily Freeman, Broadway, Kingston, N. Y.

Dear Sirs:

In your issue of Thursday, December 20, you printed a statement made by Corporation Counsel Gill relative to the value of the land that has been condemned for the Cornell street improvement.

It seems that the statement, as made, while probably without any intention of being critical, did appear to convey a very unpleasant comment on the amount asked for by us, as compared to the price for the property belonging to the Cornell estate.

These two plots are greatly different in size and shape but the Cornell property, although not a worthless bit of land, would be of no use whatever for factory purposes such as ours, as can easily be verified by anyone interested. The land taken from our property will damage the value of the plant as a whole in a number of ways.

We do not wish to take up your space going into this in detail, but just wish to mention that our buildings were originally put up to permit expansion on the very property that will be taken away from us. This will seriously handicap the plant some day as there is no apparent way now where extension can be properly made to suit our original plan. We have water and sewer pipes, etc., now on our own property, shortly to be taken in a public street. On account of our bleaching and finishing department, refuse from them sometimes clogs these pipes, necessitating digging down to them to blow them out. This, in the future would be an expensive job as the street will have to be torn up. In addition to this the appearance of the plant is materially affected and our employes are going to lose a very attractive spring and summer resting place.

We carefully considered the price asked for the property and felt we were very moderate in our figures. We trust you will print the foregoing as we do not like to have a wrong impression as created by the before mentioned article to remain unnoticed.

Yours very truly.
U. S. LACE CURTAIN MILLS.

SEVENTEEN DIE IN HOSPITAL FIRE

Fire Trap Known as "Death House" at Illinois Institution for Insane Burned—30 Dangerous Patients Escape—Many Veterans Among Victims.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Chicago, Dec. 27.—Five city, state and federal agencies today launched a joint inquiry into the disastrous fire at the State Hospital for the Insane at Dunning, which last night took a toll of at least 17 lives and loosed 30 or more dangerously insane patients to this city.

Fire hazard in the overcrowded frame structure known as "the death house," has been recognized as an ever present danger for the last eleven years and the asylum has been saved from destruction by flames largely by luck in eight blazes since 1910.

Judge C. H. Jenkins, state director of public welfare, arrived in Chicago today to take charge of the investigation for the state. He will be assisted by the state fire marshal's office, the Chicago fire department, County Judge Jarecki and representatives of the United States Veterans Bureau, working on behalf of ex-service men housed in the timber structure.

Bodies charred beyond recognition made the work of identification slow, and but five had been listed among the known dead early today. They were:

Elijah Carracker, an attendant
Mrs. Carracker, his wife
Lowell Carracker, 11, their son
Michael Ledwith, 43, a patient
John Bennett, 38, a patient.

Twelve unidentified bodies recovered from the ruins were those of patients unable to escape when panic broke loose among the six hundred paralytics, epileptics and victims of dement a praecox, who were in the flimsy building when the flames were discovered.

Many of the six hundred patients suffering from milder forms of insanity under ordinary conditions became violent in the horror of the night and broke away from attendants and guards in effort to make their way back into the burning building or to escape from the asylum grounds.

Thirty of the cases classed as dangerous were believed to be among the escaped as dawn broke over the work of sifting the ruins for additional bodies.

Charles A. Carpenter, who broke away as the patients were being marched for shelter to the building where two Christmas trees were waiting for a celebration for patients when disaster intervened, was captured in Chicago after a fight with police.

Carpenter attempted to slash officers with a knife before he was captured.

The flames were discovered while most of the patients were still at supper.

Herman Hacker, epileptic and normal except when seized with an attack had finished his meal and gone to his room, where he knelt at his cot praying. The crackling of flames aroused him. He found smoke curling from the closet where oil and mops were stored. Then a sheet of flame spread, enveloping the entire building.

He ran shouting down the corridor to the entrance of the dining room and notified Mrs. Hanna Saunders an attendant. The cry of fire unloosed the ragged nerves of the patients in a sudden panic. There had been a false alarm the night before.

Mrs. Saunders ran to fire headquarters and the asylum's siren shrieked a warning over the grounds.

As she returned to the building the lights went out, leaving the six hundred panicky occupants in darkness. Their screams of terror were followed by a rush to the exits where they crowded and trampled in their efforts to escape. But eighteen attendants were available to lead the patients to safety and march them to the administration building where temporary accommodations were arranged.

Several of the patients were blind. Mrs. Saunders making her best efforts to keep the men calm, led several to the door. On one return to the hall, she was overcome by smoke and fell. One of the insane men dashed back and carried her to safety.

Asylum apparatus was practically helpless against the quick spread of the flames.

Many of the patients held at Dunning were ex-service men, some of whom had lost their reason in the roar of shell fire in France. Lack of provision for these men had forced assignment of those who came to the attention of Chicago police to Dunning, despite crowded conditions there, police officials stated.

PHOENICIA TO HAVE LODGE OF REBEKAHS.

23 Initiated at Bearsville by Kingston Degree Team.

Bearsville, Dec. 27.—On Wednesday evening, December 19, a class of 23 members was initiated in the Rebekah Degree of Agapae Rebekah Lodge, No. 823, I. O. O. F. Twenty-one of these members will form the nucleus of a new lodge to be formed at Phoenicia. The degree team of Atharhacton Lodge of Kingston did the work and did it in a very creditable manner. Agapae Lodge not feeling themselves competent to undertake the work with such a large class, they themselves having been instituted only eight months ago. At the close of the session, however, they proved themselves capable of performing the part of entertainers and the past reputation of Bearsville both in the subordinate and Rebekahs Lodges was maintained by the dainty luncheon served and the spirit of good fellowship which prevailed.

Bearsville Lodge, No. 533, I. O. O. F., will hold its election of officers on Friday evening of this week and their installation on January 4.

D. D. G. M. Blakeley and several members of Sunshine Lodge visited Bearsville Lodge last Friday evening. Their visit was enjoyed by all.

Singing the Old Songs.

"Ah, for the old days!" sighed the old fashioned young man. "The girls of today are not at all like their mothers used to be! Why, I'll bet you don't know what needles are for." He glanced with scorn at the modern girl. "I do, too!" she flashed. "They're for phonographs!"—Wayside Tales.

SAVINGS MORE THAN DOUBLE IN DECADE

New York.—Reported savings deposits in banks and trust companies of the United States have more than doubled in amount during the past decade, and the number of accounts have increased by about 141 per cent, figures compiled by the Savings Bank Division, American Bankers Association, show.

"If distributed equally among our entire population, the savings deposits in 1913 would have given $38 to each adult and child in the country," the Division's report says, "but in 1923 the portion of each would have been no less than $158."

The officially reported savings deposits are as follows:

	Deposits	Accounts
1913	$8,425,275,000	12,584,316
1923	17,331,479,000	30,323,320
Increase ..	105.7%	140.9%

"This remarkable growth is attributable to improvement in the services of the banks for savers and to the more consistent canvass for accounts through advertising and soliciting," the report says.

Paper or a Bomb.

A young woman carelessly tossed an apple core out of the auto she was riding in and a motorcycle cop who was speeding past received it full in the face. He stopped and turned to her with a scowl, and the young woman had visions of an interview with the magistrate. But she smiled at him and her smile won his heart, for he said with a grin, "Lady, I'm glad you are not a bricklayer," and remounting his wheel he sped away.—Boston Transcript.

PUBLIC HEARING ON CITY BUDGET

Mayor W. P. Crane will hold a public hearing on the proposed city budget Friday evening at 7:30 o'clock at the city hall in the common council chambers. The proposed budget fixes the tax rate at about $33.70 per thousand valuation. This increase is caused by the increase in the amount of the state and county tax.

The budget as prepared will be either revised or adopted as prepared, in January by the incoming administration. Until the budget is officially adopted the definite figures on the tax rate will not be known.

A HARD HITTING LETTER ON BONUS AND TAXES

Veteran Calls On Congressmen To Follow President.

Mr. Loomis, the writer of the following letter, puts the tax reduction and the bonus squarely up to his Congressman. Every voter should do the same thing with his Congressman:

Hon. Benjamin F. Fairchild,
House of Representatives,
Washington, D. C.,

My Dear Mr. Fairchild:

You asked for my vote last fall and I was glad to give it to you.

I am now asking you to vote for tax reduction in accordance with the plan outlined by Secretary Mellon.

I want to know where you stand and how you act on the matter. I therefore respectfully request you to send me daily the Congressional Record.

As a veteran, a volunteer and a flight commander at the front in the Air Service who spent seventeen months in France and therefore would receive a large amount from the bonus I wish to express absolute disapproval of any bonus measure.

The boys with whom I flew over the lines, those who are living and those who gave their lives in a flaming torch to their country, would damn the man who sought to tip them for their loyalty. The fact that the tip came not from the gratitude of the people but from the toadying of selfseeking politicians to a politically much feared organization makes it all the more hateful.

At the same time the tip, if voted, must be accepted by every veteran to help him defray the added expense of heavy taxation and high living costs for many years to come.

This is a mild expression of the way many other ex-service men feel with whom I have talked.

We have an able President who has pointed the way and made it easy for you. Now let us see you do the right thing for your country and forget yourselves for a little while.

Sincerely yours,
HENRY S. LOOMIS.

All departed at a late hour, wishing each other a merry Christmas.

Dennis-Odell.

Robert Denis, Jr., and Miss Minnie Odell, both of this city, were quietly married December 22 by the Rev. Robert H. Barr of the Reformed Church, Newburgh.

Storm-Kieffer.

Miss Evelyn Kieffer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Darves Kieffer, was united in marriage to Frederick Storm on Christmas at the parsonage of the Livingston Street Lutheran Church. After the marriage the parents of the groom gave a wedding repast.

Holiday Assembly.

The holiday assembly will be held at Clermont Hall on New Year's Eve. The committee in charge of this season's assemblies is composed of Mrs. James O. Winston, Mrs. George Hutton, Mrs. C. W. Hasbrouck, Mrs. Rodney B. Osterhoudt, Mrs. G. D. B. Hasbrouck, Mrs. George J. Smith and Mrs. Harry Gordon.

Leight-Bedell.

Miss Helen Bedell of No. 5 Grant street, Poughkeepsie, and Lewis Leight were quietly married at the home of the bride Saturday evening, December 15, by the Rev. J. J. Henry of Trinity M. E. Church. Both bride and groom were former residents of Plutarch, where they have a host of friends who wish them a long and happy married life.

Vanderbeck-Carle

Dorothy, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Percy Carle of Partition street, Saugerties, and Floyd, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Newton Vanderbeck of West Bridge street, Saugerties, were united in marriage Sunday, December 23rd, in Trinity P. E. Church by the rector, the Rev William T. Renison. The bride was attired in a blue serge suit and wore a crush velvet hat to match and carried a large bouquet of white carnations. The bridesmaid, Mrs. E. Van Tassel, Jr., a sister of the groom, wore a serge dress trimmed with fur, and wearing a hat to match. She carried a large bouqet of pink carnations. After the wedding a dinner was served at the home of the bride's parents.

Financial and Commercial

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, Dec. 27.—The stock market opened firm and active today. Advances of a fraction to one point were distributed over the list with the steel shares the center of activities.

Stocks gained further ground in the forenoon trading. There was heavy trading in the equipments, American Locomotive rising over one point to 76, Baldwin 1⅜ to 126⅜ and American Car and Foundry nearly one point to 163¼. Among the coppers, American Smelting was prominent, rising one point to 58⅞. Oils held steady. Steels were somewhat irregular.

Pine Tree Pollen.

Yellow rain in the Yukon territory and red snow in Greenland with a peculiar fine yellow deposit, are usually found to be caused by the pollen of pine trees growing miles distant. The pollen is caught by the winds, carried away and then dropped. The red snow is "made" by wind-placed deposits of minute vegetable organisms, bits of seaweed which contain red spots.

BIG BALLOON STILL MISSING

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Paris, Dec. 27.—Airplanes combed the skies, fleet warcraft searched the Mediterreanean and motor cars, motor cycles, camel troops and cavalry today explored the North African desert for trace of the missing dirigible balloon Dixmude, with fifty passengers aboard, whose dramatic disappearance has engaged the attention of the whole world.

The great balloon has been missing nine days since she started upon her flight across the sea from Toulon for Algeria.

While the ministry of marine has not yet abandoned hope that some or all the fifty passengers and air sailors may be found alive, the fate of the balloon may go down among the unsolved mysteries of sea and air.

French military stations in northern Africa have been instructed by wireless to redouble their search. British and French cruisers and destroyers are aiding the French to search for the wreckage of the balloon in the Mediterranean.

The ministry of marine announced that the last message from the Dixmude was picked up by the French wireless station at Bizarta at 8 o'clock last Friday night.

The Antiquity of Rope.

Rope comprises one of the earliest inventions and the method of making it has not greatly changed in all the ages that it has been in use. An improvement in the arrangement of the fibers in the twisted strands has been made recently which increases the efficiency of the rope from about 60 to 80 per cent.

First English Toll Road.

The first English toll road led from St. Giles-in-the-Fields to the village of Charing, now central London. It continued from Charing to Temple Bar, and, turning, went along Perpoole. Parliament authorized the levying of the first toll on this road in 1346.

Rattlesnakes Viviparous.

Many serpents lay eggs, but the most venomous ones and many of the commonest species are viviparous. The viviparous retain the eggs within the body until hatched. Rattlesnakes are viviparous and produce from six to nine young of five inches in length.

Ear Tag System Is Practical for Flocks

Especially Used for Identifying Each Individual.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

An ingenious and simple method of marking farm breeding animals has been used successfully with sheep for eight years by Cooper Curtice of the United States Department of Agriculture at the farm of the bureau of animal industry near Vienna, Va. The system is especially adapted for identifying quickly the extent of pure blood of individuals in herds and flocks being improved with purebred sires. Each animal is labeled with an aluminum tag bearing a number. Females are labeled on the right ear; males on the left. The young are given the dam's number preceded by 1 (or by 10 if the dam's number is a digital number) if it is the first young born; preceded by 2 if the second born, and so on.

This system is quite practical for farm flocks of sheep of less than 100 head, and for cattle. If a purebred sire is being used to grade up a herd or flock of nondescript females, the system affords a very good ever-present record of the grade of animals obtained. For example: The firstborn young of female No. 25 will be marked 125. Animal No. 125 is one-half grade. The young of 125 will become 1125, and will be a three-quarters grade. No. 11125 will be seven-eighths, and No. 111125, fifteen-sixteenths. To illustrate further: No. 3125 is the third young of the first young of 25 and a three-quarters grade.

When there is no longer space for additional figures on the label, the sixth or seventh generation may be marked with letters following the number of the original dam. Applied to female No. 25, the young of the sixth generation may be marked 25A; next generation, 25B, and so on. If desired, the sire number may be placed on the reverse side of the label.

This method of identifying animals may be used in conjunction with an ear-notching system, which further identifies them. A good ear-notching plan enables the owner to replace, with assurance as to correct identity, any ear tags that may be lost.

Eradicate Weed Plants by Preventing Growth

There is only one way to eradicate noxious perennial plants such as wild morning glories or pea vine growths, or whatever kind they may be; and that is to prevent them from making any leaf growth during the last half of summer, or after about July 1. Whatever method you find most convenient for doing this will be the most practical method for you to apply.

Some such plants can be eradicated by pasturing the last half of summer; other methods are to keep the land cultivated the last half of summer, or to keep them cut down with a hoe when in some cultivated crop, such as corn; another method is to smother with straw or by growing some rank growing crop; another is to keep the land mowed close to the ground frequently.

Lack of Cleanliness Is Cause of Calf Disorders

Nearly all disorders or diseases of calves, says the United States Department of Agriculture, are caused either directly or indirectly by lack of cleanliness. Filth, whether it is in feed, pens, bedding, or pails and utensils, is dangerous to the health of the calf. To be on the safe side use nothing but clean milk (sweet or sour), scald the pails or sterilize them with steam, remove old feed from the boxes and clean them daily. Filth and dirt are the natural breeding places of many bacteria that will cause disturbances in the young animal's stomach. Freedom from filth usually means freedom from disease.

Best to Dehorn Calves When but Few Days Old

Dehorning young calves is best done when the calf is a few days old. Clip the hair with a pair of shears where the horn will appear. Rub the button with caustic potash until the dead layer of the skin comes off and it is about ready to bleed. The end of the stick of caustic potash that you apply to the horn should first be moistened and the stick held with a cloth so as not to burn the hand.

If for any reason the operation has been delayed for several weeks the button can be cut off with a sharp knife and the caustic potash applied to kill it. This will kill the horn, but it is better to do it before the calf is a few weeks old.

Pigs Are Benefited by Allowance of Charcoal

Pigs are always benefited by having frequent access to charcoal. The following method of preparing charcoal is very satisfactory: A mass of cobs are raked together and set on fire. When the cobs are burning briskly oats are poured over the fire until it is all but smothered. In a short time the oats will be well blackened. The fire should then be put out by scattering the burning cobs. The cobs may continue burning but the fire in the oats will quickly die out. When cold the pigs should be allowed free access to the burned oats. They will greedily search out every particle.

Avoid Zinc Poisoning.

Food should not be allowed to stand for even a short time in a galvanized iron bucket, as some of the zinc coating on the bucket may be dissolved and zinc poisoning result from eating the food.

HOW THE NATION IS PROTECTED FROM SERIOUS DISASTER

City Without a Reserve Water Supply Against Destruction by Fire Likened by Bankers' Committee to Business Situation Without Federal Reserve System.

A vital element in everybody's prosperity is that mysterious sounding "something or other" called bank reserve, says the Committee on Public Education of the American Bankers Association, adding: "It isn't an easy matter to make simple and interesting, but its importance to every man, woman and child in the country makes the effort worth while." The Committee continues:

Money on deposit must always be ready for depositors when they desire it. Banks must also be ready to loan money, when needed, to their customers, or business would be hampered. In other words, prosperity depends largely on the ability of the banks to meet these demands—that is, depends on the "bank reserves." The problem of handling reserves has been difficult. The Federal Reserve System has met the problem more satisfactorily than any other method ever tried in this country.

The Great Solution

Our banks are managed by officers and directors, elected by their own stockholders. They are interested in helping the town to grow and prosper. But just as a local telephone station is valuable to the interchange of thought because it belongs to a system whose wires reach to all parts of the nation, so the local bank is valuable to the interchange of business because of its connections with other banks in the United States, finding its strength and its usefulness in being part of a system.

For many years a plan was sought whereby our thousands of separate and independent banks could get together and cooperate for the improvement of our banking methods, and for mutual protection in emergencies, both for themselves and customers. We had periodical money panics, dangerously disturbing to business, and chargeable, in large part, to defects in our banking and currency system.

There was no central bank from which the individual banks could get assistance in time of trouble. Panic conditions caused weak banks to fail, and even strong and sound institutions to be imperilled. Bankers, business men, and leaders in Congress for years made a careful study of banking and finally Congress passed a law providing for the establishment of twelve great Federal Reserve Banks, each designed to serve as a sort of central bank for such banks in its allotted territory as might become members of the Federal Reserve System.

It retained the American plan of independent banks doing business under the management of their own directors and officers. About 10,000 banks have become members of the Federal Reserve System. The member banks in each district own the entire stock of the Federal Reserve bank there, and elect two-thirds of the directors. The other directors are appointed by the Federal Reserve Board at Washington, the Governmental body having supervision over the Reserve banks, though it does not operate them. Its members are appointed by the President of the United States.

The Federal Reserve banks hold member banks' reserves. Formerly each bank carried in its own vault the cash required by law as a legal reserve so that it would be ready to pay depositors on demand. The gold supply of the country was thus scattered among thousands of independent banks.

When Fire Rages

This situation may be likened to the old-time water supply in a town. Each house had to depend on its individual well, tank, or cistern. Picture such a town attacked by fire. If the water was low in one well, from drought, or excessive use, water would have to be borrowed from a neighboring well. Suppose the water in that well also was at a low level. Thus the safety of all was sacrificed because no RESERVE water supply was at hand. The fire would become a conflagration.

Under the Federal Reserve System, we have a series of modern reservoirs, located in various parts of the country, each serving the needs of the banks in its own district. In each of these reservoirs credit is stored up to be supplied to the various banks, as the need arises. Each reservoir is in turn connected with all the others so that when the supply in one becomes low, the others may be temporarily drawn upon. By gathering the gold reserves of the member banks into the twelve Federal Reserve banks, a result has been obtained like that yielded by the construction of a great city water supply.

Each member bank formerly had to depend almost entirely upon it's own resources in making loans to its customers. When it had loaned all of its own money, it could do no more, even though the merchant, manufacturer, or farmer customer had great need of more credit, and was seeking it for highly important and necessary purposes. Hence arose what was called a "tight money" situation. Now the member bank can, and frequently does take the notes of its customers to the Federal Reserve bank, and borrows there in much the same way as the customer borrows from the member bank.

This reserve-storing and loaning work of the Reserve System is only part of the wonderful protection and service it is rendering the nation.

First Engine Used in 1829.

The first attempt made in the United States to use locomotive engines, otherwise than for mere experiment, was made on the railway from Carbondale to Honesdale, Pa., 16 miles, built by the Delaware and Hudson Canal company. The Stourbridge Lion, a locomotive built in England, was placed upon the road in August, 1829. In 1830, construction was begun on the South Carolina railroad, and the road was designed and built to be operated by steam locomotives. This was the first railway built with the purpose from the beginning of using steam locomotives.

Nothing at All.

"And you'd love me just the same if I hadn't a cent; wouldn't you, dear?"

"Don't be foolish, darling! You know, money is nothing to me. But I hope you've been telling me the truth about your prospects, for I never could condone falsehood!"—Judge.

Why Lemon?

By carefully arranging utensils and supplies to eliminate extra steps and motions, experiments at the University of Washington have demonstrated that a housewife can cut nearly 11 minutes from the time ordinarily taken to make a lemon pie.

Our Currency.

At the present time there are five kinds of paper money or currency issued for circulation purposes. The United States Treasury issues three kinds: (1) United States notes, an authorized issue of about 346 million dollars protected by gold reserve of approximately 152 million dollars; (2) gold certificates issued against an equal amount of gold held in the U. S. Treasury for redemption, and (3) silver certificates issued against an equal amount of standard silver dollars held in the U. S. Treasury. Two kinds of bank currency are issued—national bank notes, secured by deposit of United States bonds, and Federal Reserve notes, secured by commercial paper and gold.—Argonaut.

How "Bill of Fare" Started.

The origin of the term "Bill of Fare" is as follows:

It is said that the Elector Henry of Braunshiweig attracted general notice at a state dinner during a meeting of electors in Regensburg in 1489 by referring to a long list before him each dish was ordered. In reply to an inquiry, the elector spread the paper out and it was found to contain a list of dishes prepared for the occasion. The idea so pleased the assembly that each of them had it introduced into his household.

Several Species of Rattlesnakes.

The most common and well known rattlesnakes are abundant in the East, from the White mountains in New Hampshire, and Lake Superior, to the borders of the dry plains. The diamond rattler is found mainly in the southern states along the coast from North Carolina to Texas, and a variety ranges westward to Lower California. Several other species occur in the Rocky mountain region and northern Mexico. The ground rattler is also found in southern states, and the black rattler is common in the Allegheny mountains.

Dead Sea Fruit.

The apple of Sodom is the familiar name of a species of yellow fruit which grows on the borders of the Dead sea. It is extremely beautiful to the eye, but bitter to the taste and full of small black grains, not unlike ashes. This apple is often referred to as the "Dead sea fruit," and the expression used as a metaphor for hollow, unsatisfactory pleasures.

MISS NICOL IS DISQUALIFIED

For Post Of Superintendent Of Schools, Rules Commissioner Graves—Has No Certificate And Her Alma Mater Not Approved.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Albany, Dec. 27.—Miss Lucille Nicol, recently nominated by the New York city board of superintendents for the position of district superintendent of schools, today was disqualified by Dr. Frank P. Graves, state commissioner of education.

Dr. Graves's decision was based on the fact that Miss Nicol was not a graduate of a college approved by the University of the State of New York, nor the possessor of a superintendent's certificate issued by the state commissioner of education.

After charges had been made Miss Nicol was not qualified for the post of district superintendent the board asked Dr. Graves to decide the case.

Miss Nicol was graduated from the normal college of the city of New York, now Hunter College, in June, 1897. Dr. Graves held that this institution was not recognized as a college by the state board of regents until subsequent to 1902.

In holding Miss Nicol was not qualified, Dr. Graves said:

"The qualifications are fixed and imposed definitely by the statute and they must be met in order to render a person eligible to any of the positions referred to in the statute."

Regarding Hunter College, Dr. Graves said:

"As to the status of the normal college of the city of New York, now Hunter College, it appears from the records of the regents of the university that in 1897, the course of study in the college was but five years duration. Admission to the course was granted upon completion of the elementary school course of study in New York city, or the equivalent in certain private schools, after a competitive examination.

"A rule adopted by the board of regents in 1896 provided that an institution to be ranked as a college must have at least six professors giving their entire time to college and university work and a course of four full years of college grade in the liberal arts and sciences and must require for admission four years of academic or high school preparation in addition to the pre-academic or grammar school studies.

"This rule precluded the recognition of a course of study in the normal college as it existed in 1897 as a collegiate course."

THE WIDOW'S MIGHT

Three widows in three different towns faced the problem of income. One sought a manager for her husband's business in the hope a living for both her and the manager would result. One found herself the sort of low-paid job a woman past forty can acquire, and is saving painstakingly sums to care for her old age. One past fifty, took over her husband's factory, and in ten years increased the profits three-fold.

No article can give an unfailing recipe for the secret of such success as Mrs. Charles Knox has made of her universally known gelatin business. It can only tell how the Knoxes did it, for he had helped her greatly during his lifetime. Her husband started the little factory at Johnstown, N. Y. Both had struggled to accumulate. What she saved from her household allowance was always hers. If Mr. Knox needed money, he often borrowed from her—at bank rates. When he consulted her about his business affairs he expected a judgment based on reason. He never "fooled her with praise," she says. But he acted on her opinion.

So much for his part. At his death the boys' future depended on her wise action. And she loved her children. Financially she is canny. She found that Mr. Knox's newspaper, a side line, did not pay. Forthwith all checks for the paper were issued from her office until the paper did pay and could be sold at a profit. When she built a concrete factory to replace the original wooden one, she planned, not for ostentation and size, but for cleanliness and convenience. It carried on a far larger volume of business with almost the same floor space. When her first contract involved spending $85,000, she learned how to secure the rock-bottom price from the salesman of the other side.

She sets a high standard. Her product, her employees, her son and assistant in the business, even the orchid conservatory at her home—all must pay their way by showing clean-cut efficiency.

She likes the sort of simplicity that often accompanies greatness. Her advertising campaigns have illustrated this. Mr. Knox used to go in for stunts. Mrs. Knox has mainly confined herself to "swapping recipes" as from one woman to other women who love the kitchen.

To women entering business she says: "You must have training or ability or both. Use common sense. Utilize your sex, but don't demand favors on account of it. Keep busy thinking of what you can accomplish and you will grow old only half as fast as the woman who worries over what she can't do."

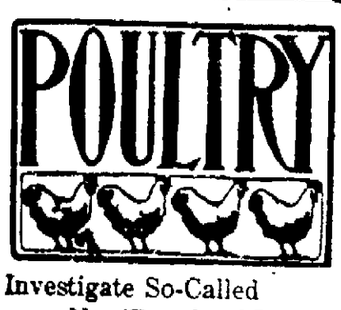
POULTRY



Investigate So-Called New Breeds of Poultry

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

During the past few months the United States Department of Agriculture has received many requests from all parts of the country for information concerning two so-called new "breeds" of poultry, the "Turken" and the "Kiwi". The department has been aware of advertisements concerning these new and novel "breeds", for which some rather remarkable claims have been made. The advertisements and literature describing the origin and qualities of these "breeds" seem to have aroused much interest on the part of the public, since the department has recently received several urgent requests for an explanation regarding the reliability of the claims made.

The statements in the advertisements and literature claim that the "Turken" was originally produced by crossing a male turkey with a female chicken, and that the "Kiwi" was produced by crossing a male ostrich with a female chicken.

Successful crosses have been made between the pheasant and the chicken, and in practically every case the progeny has been of the male sex and sterile. Also, successful crosses have been made between the guinea and the chicken and here, again, the sex of the progeny has almost invariably been male and the hybrids have been sterile. Both of these crosses have been made with great difficulty and, so far as known, no cross giving any progeny has ever been reported between the turkey and the chicken. Furthermore, it is highly improbable that the progeny, if any have ever been secured, would breed at all, and certainly not readily. In such wide or violent crosses the progeny is always sterile, and the claim that the "Turken", which is reported to be the hybrid progeny of a cross between the turkey and the chicken, is in all probability not founded on fact.

One other point must be made concerning the so-called "Turken", says the department. The illustrations accompanying the advertisements and literature are in all probability photographs of the Transylvania naked-neck chickens. According to the best information obtainable this odd-looking breed originated in West India and the characteristic naked-neck has bred true for many years. It is a distinct character of the breed. The department believes that the so-called "Turken" is nothing else than the Transylvania naked-neck chicken, which apparently possesses no qualities superior to the more important standard breeds and varieties and has not been shown to be particularly well adapted to conditions in many parts of our country.

As far as the reported cross giving rise to the "Kiwi" is concerned, there is much less evidence in support of such a cross than in the case of the "Turken". This is too violent a cross to produce any results whatever.

The burden of proof that such crosses as those giving rise to the "Turken" and the "Kiwi" must remain with the sponsors of such novel productions. In the meantime, the interests of the public should be safeguarded.

Much Depends Upon Care When Pullets Will Lay

At what age should pullets begin laying? It is commonly acknowledged that Leghorn pullets on the average will begin laying at the age of 5 to 5½ months. Wyandottes and Rhode Island Reds usually start at 6 to 6½ months and Plymouth Rocks around 7 months.

Of course there are exceptions where better records are made. Much depends upon the care and attention given during the months of growth and development. If properly fed and housed, they should be in a laying condition at the age mentioned above.

Timely Poultry Hints

Fall-hatched chickens are in good demand from January 1 to April 1.

* * *

Count on a shrinkage of a half-pound for each bird shipped.

* * *

Ship adult fowls in a box 20 by 18 by 12 inches, to hold 24 birds.

* * *

All animal heat must be out of the carcass before packing for shipment.

* * *

Young fowls in the same package with old stock, will command the prevailing prices for the latter.

* * *

The regulation box, for a dozen broilers measures 17 by 16 by 4 inches, inside measurement. It is made of half-inch lumber.

* * *

For shipping one dozen roasting fowls, the box should measure 20 by 19 by 6 inches, of half-inch stuff.—Farm Journal.

* * *

Cockerels that develop head points and begin to crow early in life are apt to be the best breeders. Breed the best ones before selling too many broilers.

Forest Estimates.

It is estimated that if the forests of the earth were completely stocked and scientifically worked they would yield annually the full equivalent of from 80 to 120 times the present consumption of coal.

ALBERT J. DANN ENDS 34 YEARS AT WINNE'S.

Other Employes Present Him With Ring For Remembrance.

Albert J. Dann, who has been the efficient and courteous bookkeeper for L. S. Winne & Company of Wall street for thirty-four years, has resigned his position there, to take effect Saturday evening. During his long term of service, Mr. Dann has made many friends and has gained a warm spot in the hearts of his fellow employes, the latter of whom presented him with a handsome ring as a token of their esteem.

The presentation was made by C. H. Longyear, who expressed the deep feeling of everyone of the men when he said:

Mr. Dann: "I have have been asked by your friends, the employes of L. S. Winne & Company, who have been privileged to work with you to assure you in our behalf of our sincere regret of your intention to sever the relations, so long existing. We have hoped up to the present moment that you might reconsider your decision.

"We wish to express in some degree the esteem in which we regard you, and our admiration of your character and ability. Thirty-four years of continuous effort, always crowned with the results of honest achievement is a record of which you may justly feel proud. Almost half of the allotted life of man, you have given to this work, making yourself the oldest employe of the clerical force. You are relinquishing this position, so worthily maintained without the loss of one worthy quality you possessed or have acquired during the years you have worked with us. For this extended time you have so ably controlled the many duties that have come to you, that each one of us has reason to remember your many acts of forbearance and words of kindness. Many times when we have made error we have received friendly consideration at your hands. You have given us counsel and encouragement, and in this way you have made us sincere friends, and taught us faithfulness to our respective duties. We have shared the joys and sorrows of the passing years until we have seemed almost like a family circle.

"But we will not confine our gratitude to mere words. Our good wishes will follow you wherever you go.

"We ask you to accept this ring, as a slight memento of our long and pleasant relations, with the fond hope that wherever the future finds you, the sight of the metal that encircles your finger will remind you of your friends in Kingston, for friends will come and friends will go, but memory is eternal."

Greenland.

Greenland has been explored by a number of men, among whom are Ross, Inglefield, De Haven, Kane, Hayes, Hall, Greely, Peary and Nansen. Nansen crossed from sea to sea in 1888, and Peary in 1892, and in 1895 again crossed the ice-cap, ascertaining the insular character of the continent. Various other explorations of the coast line have been conducted.

ST. PETER'S TEAMS ADD ANOTHER

Largest Crowd of Season Watches Fast Contest in Which St. Peter's Quintet Beat Hudson Valley Y. M. H. A. Team—Juniors Beat Chancellors.

The St. Peter's teams were again successful Wednesday evening, at the local court. The Junior quintet in the preliminary game won from the Chancellor Five, 37 to 19 and the Seniors downed the Hudson Valley Y. M. H. A. team, 24 to 19.

In the big game the St. Peter's Lyceum Five started early to score and held the lead throughout the struggle. At half time the score was in the home club's favor, 14 to 7.

Koenig was the highest point getter, caging four fields and two fouls, a total of ten points. Lorber and Millens on the visiting club were tied for second scoring honors, each with six points.

The Hebrew team outscored the Saints from the floor 9 to 6. The winning club's margin from the penalty line was 11 points, the losers caging but one basket from the correction line.

Following the games dancing was enjoyed by a large crowd. One of the largest crowds of the season witnessed the contests.

BETHANY SUNDAY SCHOOL CHRISTMAS ENTERTAINMENT

Bethany Sunday school corner Washington avenue and North Front street was crowded to the doors Wednesday evening. The annual Christmas entertainment was given. "The Babe of Bethlehem" a pretty dramatized short play being presented. The costumes were very pretty and music was rendered well. The Rev. O. A. Merchant and the Rev. Lucas Boeve were present and assisted in the exercises, after which Santa Claus appeared, but being unable to come down the chimney he came through one of the windows, which caused lots of merriment and fun for the children. Later ice cream and cake were served. Bethany is grateful for the ice cream sent to them from the First Reformed Sunday school also to Lauren McLane who played Santa Claus.

Tough Luck.

Willie (to kid in the house)—"Hey, Eddie, come out an' play with me I've got me wagon." Eddie—"I can't. Me father's gone to play golf and he's wearing my knickers."
